Japan Presents Attitude With Regard To Manchuria

Japan Outlines Nation's Policy In Manchuria

Says Dissention In China Makes It Impossible For China To Act

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TOKYA, Oct. 26.—The Japanese Government today issued an official statement outlining its policy with regard to the conflict in Manchuria, denying once again that it had any territorial aspirations in the rich northern regions of China.

At the same time, the government denied charges of Japanese aggression in Manchuria, insisting troops had been sent into territory outside the treaty zones solely to protect the lives and property of Japanese Nationals.

Reiterate Stand

The statement reiterated Tokyo's desire for direct negotiations with China, denying the implication that the presence of troops in Manchuria meant any attempt by Japan to exert pressure upon China while the negotiations are in progress.

The statement again made public the "Five Point" proposal made to

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Golf enthusiasts were out in fairly large numbers Sunday, Pa Newc observed. There will be few more days such as yesterday left to play on, and many were taking advantage of what may be their last chance this fall.

Pa Newc observes that other communities are falling in the footsteps of this city, where the New Castle Mining and Clay Products Company has given the unemployed an opportunity to dig their own coal. In Grove City, an old strip mine on borough-owned land has been opened and the unemployed are digging their own coal from it. Many plans first tried out here as relief measures are being copied elsewhere.

In spite of the fairly heavy frosts of the last few weeks, wild flowers are still to be found blooming in secluded spots throughout the country. Pa Newc found violets were still blooming Sunday afternoon.

Those who failed to take advantage of the opportunity to view the splendors of nature, Sunday, missed something. The entire countryside is now a blaze of glory with beautiful browns, reds, and yellows, interspersed with green, splashing the landscape with a riot of colors. This will soon be gone, as many of the trees are shedding their leaves rapidly.

Aged Venango County Lady, Resident Here For Years, Recalls Edison In Youth

To Mrs. M. D. Bennett, 88-year-old lady who lives on a picturesque farm close to Clintonville, Venango County, not far off the Harrisville-Emlenton state highway, Thomas Alva Edison, the giver of light, is remembered mostly as "Tom."

It was when the renowned inventor was only a boy, about in his teen age, that Mrs. Bennett came to know him. At the time he was merely a helper in the telegraph office of her husband down in Memphis, Tenn. Her acquaintance came before the spotlight of fame turned his way.

Injured In Fall

Mrs. Bennett, a resident of the Seventh ward until only a short time ago, fell two years ago and fractured a hip. It was not until then that her activity was in the least retarded, but now she must pass the days in an easy chair.

Last April Mrs. Bennett retired to the quiet country home to reside with Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Fike, relatives, on their 190-acre farm. The home sets on a high-up knoll, affording a scenic view of the countryside surrounding.

When a reporter of The News stopped in for a brief visit last night, Mrs. Bennett was more than surprised. Her residence in the Seventh ward brought a host of friends to her, and when New Castle people pay a passing call it certainly cheers her.

As she recalled the incidents of Thomas Edison's young life, she

SOUTH SIDERS' HALLOWE'EN PARADE THURSDAY NIGHT TO DRAW RECORD CROWD

Hallowe'en wouldn't be Hallowe'en in the South Side if there wasn't a celebration and a parade. Once a year the entire business district is clogged with thousands of people who come down either as mummers or spectators, and this year's celebration, scheduled for Thursday night, Oct. 29, will be the biggest one of its kind they have attempted.

Several reasons appear for this. First, there will be no parade in the uptown district. Second, the Board of Trade of the South Side has several years experience back of it in planning such events and all that experience will help in making this year's celebration just about the best thing you ever saw.

Plenty of Prizes

The prize committee is busy at the present time getting the prizes together, and there will be everything in the list, from a piece of hard cash to a basket of groceries. The list of prizes already would take care of an ordinary celebration, but the Slabtown lads are never satisfied with ordinary things. It has to be good or they won't touch it.

The parade will be the feature of the celebration, as it always is. Edward D. Pritchard has been named as grand marshal of the parade and has named enough aides to insure the parade being handled as it should.

Marshal Pritchard announced today that the parade would form on Long and Pollock avenues at 7:15, and at eight o'clock, exactly and precisely, the line would move out to Reynolds street, down Reynolds to Mill, down Mill to Scioto, Scioto to Reiber, Reiber to Moravia, Moravia to Long and thence back up to the point of starting.

The judges' stand, with D. O. Davies in charge as chairman, will be located near the corner of Mill and Long avenues, and as the mummers go by this point they will be given tickets for their prizes. Because this is the only parade in the city the crowd in line is expected to exceed every previous parade.

Plenty of Aides

Heading the parade will be the South Side Board of Trade members and the Niagara Hose Company of Volunteer Firemen, headed

Six Are Trapped In Coal Mine As Explosion Occurs

Rescue Workers Seek To Extricate Six Trapped Miners Near Wilkes-Barre

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 26.—Fears that six men, trapped by a huge barrier of rock and coal in a mine of the West End Coal Company at Mocanaqua, near here, had met a slow death of suffocation were expressed today as rescue parties burrowed in the subterranean cavern in an attempt to reach the miners.

Two men scrambled to safety when a terrific gas blast let go in the mine. They were John Tagmani and Gabriel Skwartake, both of Mocanaque. They were taken to Nontocike hospital, both in a critical condition from burns. Four other men escaped unhurt.

In the absence of calls or signals from the entombed men, it was feared that all had lost their lives. Officials of the coal company said the explosion caused a mammoth slide in the workings, with timbering, rock and coal blocking the passage way for about 500 feet.

Hundred Led To Safety As Fire Sweeps Building

Blind Workers Are Led Out Of Burning Building At Pittsburgh By Firemen

NO ONE INJURED DAMAGE IS $500

Origin Of Fire Not Determined—Working Materials Are Destroyed

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26.—While smoke poured through the building and flames crackled about them, 102 workers at the shop of the Pennsylvania Association for the blind were led to safety here today when fire broke out in the building.

Firemen, police and pedestrains joined in aiding the 99 blind men and 3 blind women from the blazing building.

No One Injured

The workers left the shop without excitement and no one was injured.

Origin of the fire, which started in the basement supply room of the building, was not immediately determined.

Firemen who rushed to the scene donned gas masks and went into the supply room, where a quantity of broom and reed chair making materials were stored. Within half an hour after the first alarm was sounded the blaze was reported under control.

Find New Quarters

The blind workers were taken to Salvation Army headquarters, directly across the street, where they will be quartered temporarily.

Police and fire officials were loud in their praise of the sightless inmates of the shop building, many of whom made their own escape, aided by canes with which they "tapped" their way to safety through the smoke-filled corridors.

After the blaze was extinguished,

Chest Drive Is Extended Until Wednesday Noon

Workers Secure $3,419 In Subscriptions Since Last Friday's Meeting

WILL RE-ASSIGN CARDS TONIGHT

Rabbi A. J. Grossfield Is Guest Speaker At Report Meeting Today

After reporting $3,419 in subscriptions at noon today, bringing the 1931 Community Chest drive to $45,148, workers voted to extend the campaign until Wednesday noon, when they hope to be able to make up the greater part of the deficiency.

Many workers reported that there were still some substantial contributions outstanding that they had been unable to secure a report on, and many cards were found for persons who had not been seen.

Rabbi Grossfield Speaks

Rabbi A. F. Grossfield delivered the invocation at today's report meeting in the Y. W. C. A., and also gave a short talk, in which he praised the workers for the fine community spirit they were showing in their work on this project.

"It is always gratifying," he stated," "to see such a large group of men and women who are willing to give up the greater part of a week's time in the cause of other people. There is nothing better in life than sacrifice for others.

"The amount yet needed in this campaign is small, but it may look like a huge amount after a week's fatiguing work. I hope you will put it across, however, and that you will be able to announce at your next meeting that the goal has been attained."

The reports today showed the following:

DURANT, Okla., Oct. 26.—Anticipating the issuance of a federal court injunction at Muskogee, Gov. W. H. Murray today "jumped the gun" and again placed the Dennison-Durant Red river bridge area under martial law today.

The order placing the area under military rule was given by Gov. Murray while passing through here early today enroute from Dallas to Oklahoma City.

The martial law order was Gov. Murray's answer to owners of the parallel toll bridge who were to seek an injunction against operation of the free bridge in federal court at Muskogee today.

The bridge area first was placed under martial law last summer when Gov. Murray ordered an opening of the free bridge in defiance of a federal court injunction and instructed state highway crews to destroy approaches to the toll bridge.

Labor Government Charged With Using Postal Deposits To Support Dole

LONDON, Oct. 26.—In a savage eleventh-hour attack upon the Labor Party, charges that the British Labor Government used postoffice savings deposits to support the unemployment dole were broadcast to the country today on the eve of the parliamentary election.

Walter Runciman, one of the Liberal Party leaders supporting the National Government, made the charges in a speech at South Shields, declaring the government had been "anxious" in April and August of this year over the safety of the deposits.

A substantial portion of the deposits, representing savings of millions of working-class citizens, had been "loaned," according to Runciman, to the government fund out of which unemployment insurance was paid.

Hoover And Laval End Conferences On World Issues

Some Accomplishments Seen As Result Of Discussions At Washington

SEE LITTLE HOPE OF DISARMAMENT

Some Re-adjustment Of War Debts Is Likely In Near Future

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The understanding reached by President Hoover and Premier Laval on the explosive issues of war debts and reparations was described today in the highest administration quarters as constituting "a great forward step" in world economic rehabilitation.

In the practical application of this understanding, France recedes from her position that there can be no reduction in the damages to be collected from Germany, and the United States, on its part, definitely abandons the old Hughes thesis that there is no relation between reparations and the debts which the war-time allies owe us.

Admittedly it was a compromise agreement, although it can hardly be termed an agreement until parliamentary action in both countries has approved it.

In any event, it was made clear today that the administration considers this understanding to be the outstanding achievement of the Hoover-Laval conversations.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The epochal conference between President Hoover and the French Premier, Pierre Laval, ended with seemingly little concrete achievement,

There's an art to painting pictures and to painting signs on barns there's an art to writing stories and of spinning fiction yarns, there's an art in training ponies and to twanging lusty lyres, but my friend there's also art in starting cellar furnace fires. You can't toss in coal and paper and expect the fire to go, you can't leave it to its own device and have it burn and glow. You must build your pile of fuel in a way that is just right, you must coddle it in morning and be careful in the night So I claim there's art in firing though you may not think my way and in that I am no artist, weather's fifty nine today.

Police Capture Man In Robbery

Arrest Is Made At Service Station On South Mill St.

PRISONER ADMITS BEING FUGITIVE

Discovery made by Officer Fred Harlan, about two o'clock this morning, and his prompt action in securing assistance from central police station, resulted in the arrest of a man, who admits a number of robberies occurring here in the past few weeks. The man arrested was caught by Officers Harlan, George Kennedy and M. J. Young in the Gulf Refining Company service station at 431 South Mill street. He had a revolver and a number of articles in his possession, which he had taken at places entered.

As Officer Harlan was making his rounds, he discovered that the glass had been broken out of a side door. He went to a nearby bakery and called for assistance. When Officers Kennedy and Young arrived, they covered the service station and found a man inside who following his arrest gave the name of Robert Adams and his place of residence as St. Petersburg, Florida. He had a gun in his right hand and a flashlight and screw driver in his left.

In his possession was also found a letter to a buddy in New York, in which he stated that he was going under an assumed name. He also had some tire guages, a fountain pen and some ink.

He finally admitted to Chief C. C. Horner, Sheriff Frank Johnston and other officers, that his name was Ollie Maynard, that his age was 24 years, and that he had escaped from the Caledonia State Prison Farm in North Carolina, on August 3, having been sent up there from Raleigh, N. C. for from 15 months to two years on a charge of the larceny of an automobile. He also admitted to having been in the Spur Gas Company place across from the point where caught and in the office of the Love Coal Company further down the street.

While he was being questioned this morning, Detective John Young and Officer Thomas Lynch connected him up with a robbery at the service station and garage of James Cermela at Division and South Jefferson streets on October 17. This had not been reported to the police but the officers dug it up and brought the owner of that place in, who identified the gun, also a sweater that Maynard was wearing as his property, which had been taken on October 17. Cigarets were also taken at this place. He admitted also this robbery, but steadfastly refused to be implicated in any others.

Deputy Fire Chief Frank G. Jones said the blaze was a "very threatening one" with a sickening smoke from broom corn and other combustibles which hampered firemen severely in fighting the blaze.

Jones praised the sightless inmates for the calmness and order with which they left the building and said exciteMent might have had tragic results among the sightless workers if they "had lost their heads."

Thinks Of Dog

When the alarm was sounded, Miller groped unaided through smoke-filled halls and rooms, untied his dog and led him downstairs to safety.

For the past ten months, "Billy" has led Miller as he went about in the streets.

Internal Dissension

As officially expressed by a spokesman at the foreign office, Japan holds that occupation of a "few points" outside the treaty zones are necessary for protection of Japanese lives owing to the depredations of Chinese bandit gangs operating independently against the Japanese.

The foreign office has made it clear it does not believe this guerilla activity has the sanction of the constituted Chinese authorities, but points out that internal dissension in China makes it impossible for the Nationalist Nanking government to restrain these roving hordes.

HOOVER AND LAVAL END CONFERENCES ON WORLD ISSUES

but actually with some accomplishment below the international surface.

M. Laval departed from Washington early today disappointed at not having achieved the prime purpose of his visit—American participation in a security pact for France—but nevertheless apparently satisfied with his three days of intimate contact with American officialdom.

May Alter War Debts

For one thing, the administration has receded from the position which the American government has maintained for ten years that there is no relationship between German reparations and the debts which the allies owe the United States.

M. Laval leaves the United States today with the assurance that if and when France sees fit to scale down her reparation claims against Germany this government will sympathetically consider a commensurate scaling down of the debts the allies owe us.

The official communique issued jointly on behalf or Mr. Hoover and M. Laval made no mention of this fact, yet it can be stated on the highest authority that M. Laval carried with him this assurance when he left Washington.

Discard Hughes Thesis

Thus has the thesis established ten years ago by Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes, now Chief Justice, been discarded. Early in the Harding administration, Hughes laid down the dictum there was no relationship between German reparations and the allied indebtedness to the United States, and for ten years it has been a cardinal principle in American foreign policy. Apparently it is so no longer.

Other results of the Hoover-Laval conference were:

Disarmament—Very little hope. President Hoover was unable to guarantee France the security she desires, and consequently France is unwilling to materially reduce her military and naval establishment. The outlook for the Geneva Disarmament conference in February is very blue. It may be postponed.

German Moratorium— It was recognized that it will have to be extended beyond the one year period expiring next June. The initiative for its extension, however, will have to be taken by Europe.

Gold—France agreed to stricter regulation of her withdrawals from this country, in order to avoid any aspect of an attack upon the American dollar. Both countries are agreed upon the importance of maintaining the gold standard, and upon the necessity of stabilizing currency in those countries which have departed from it.

General—France and the United States, as the two richest and politically the most stable governments in the world, must cooperate to a greater degree than in the past upon world problems in general, to the end of insuring stability where it exists, and promoting it where it is now—existent or in jeopardy.

The conversations between President Hoover and M. Laval, participated in to some extent by Secretaries Stimson, Mellon, and other officials of this government, were described today as having been conducted with exceeding frankness on both sides.

M. Laval was told diplomatically but nevertheless bluntly that there can be no expectation of much American cooperation in Europe until Europe has settled some of the political sore-spots that continue to plague all relationships there. Among these sore spots the most conspicuous is the Danzig corridor, carved out of Germany and given to Poland by the Treaty of Versailles.

In the opinion of officials of this government, there can be no appreciable economic recovery in Central Europe until some of these political problems are adjusted. Moveover, it was stated, M. Laval was informed that in the adjustment of these problems Europe need not look to the United States for participation. This country will regard sympathetically efforts at their solution, but take no actual part.

revelations in a statement to the press, and asserted there would be "danger of losing these deposits again" if the Labor Government should be returned to power.

In some sections where sharp contests have arisen, the question of the safety of the postal deposits was expected to influence voters because of the fear that money taken from their deposits for the dole might be endangered.

This possibility was recognized by Arthur Henderson, leader of the Labor Party since the disaffection of Prime Minister MacDonald.

Although confined to his bed at Burnley with severe abdominal pains and a high fever, Henderson issued an appeal to the laborites "to stand fast."

FAITH

There was a time in this country that the people, selected to fill the different offices of our commonwealth and cities, were men in whom the people in general had a great deal of confidence. But today, one of the things, that is causing our hard times and the troubles of our country, is on account of the lack of FAITH in many of the public servants of today.

ROBERT JONES IS HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Ray, of Hillcrest avenue, proved most successful hosts Saturday evening, when they entertained at a 6:30 o'clock dinner in their home, honoring the 75th birthday anniversary of the latter's father, Robert Jones, who resides on Pearson street.

Those partaking of the sumptuous menu included members of the family, numbering 64. The tables were beautiful with Autumn decorations and other novelties. Thanksgiving tones also blended in with the appointments. Nine great grand-children were present, and four generations were represented at this gathering. The honored one, Robert Jones, was the oldest present, while William Braden Sumner, three months old son of Mr. and Mrs. David Sumner of Pearson street carried the honors of being the youngest one in attendance. Those serving were the daughters, Mrs. E. B. Ray, Mrs. Lillian Sumner, Mrs. Minnie Young, Mrs. Ceil Young, Mrs. Margaret Keller and Mrs. Jno. Jones.

In the evening from 7:30 o'clock on, the house was thrown open to friends who called and extended congratulations to Mr. Jones on this memorable day. A host of friends, numbering well over a hundred was served light refreshments as they came and went, by the honored guests grand-daughters, namely, Mrs. Walter Knobloch, Mrs. Mildred Young, Misses Erma Day, Lois Jones, Rosadell Shaffer, and Audry Young and Mrs. James Saunders.

Mr. Jones, who is well and favorably known throughout New Castle, is a veteran letter carrier of this city having performed this duty for thirty-two years. He has been retired the past ten years, and is making his home with his daughter, Mrs. Lillian Sumner on Pearson street.

At present, he is in the best of health. A number of handsome gifts were presented him by his friends in memory of the day.

SENTENCE OF AL CAPONE

STRIKINGLY similar comment that the good citizens of America have to make in the matter of the sentence handed out to Al Capone in Chicago, Saturday, in which he was given a term of 11 years in the penitentiary, assessed a fine of $50,000 and will be required to pay approximately $100,000 costs of the trials and suits, is that he deserved even more than he got.

It has long been a mystery to the people of the United States who are not on the inside of the "racketeering" game, how such a condition could exist as that tolerated in the case of Al Capone. The United States authorities in pushing this case against Capone have only made a start. The thing now to be done is to get other "big shots".

An immediate effect of the sentencing of Capone should be to put a new fear of the law into other gangsters, and would-be gang leaders, and to give added impetus to efforts being made by honest officers of the law.

An aroused and solidified public sentiment in the United States has decreed that the gangsters and racketeers must go. There is nothing that cannot be accomplished by public sentiment that is crystallized behind any movement.

"Big shot" racketeers as well as the "small fry" must go.

PROHIBITED USES OF HIGHWAYS

An Illinois court has handed down a decision to the effect that public highways can not be used for storage purposes. The case in which this decision was rendered resulted from a man's habitually leaving his automobile in the street at nights.

The court's decision harmonizes with the traffic regulations of most American states. These take the position that cars parked in streets at night are left there not "at the owner's risk," but at the risk of the public to which streets belong. All uses of streets which endanger the public are prohibited.

THRILLS IN FLYING

Travel by air is not a particularly exciting adventure. There being nothing with which to compare the pace of the plane there is no sensation of high speed. And from a high altitude the earth below is worthy of study, but not so much more so than a colorful map with few points designated.

That accounts for the remark of Major James H. Doolittle at the end of his record-breaking flight from Canada to Mexico that the experience of visiting three national capitals within a few minutes more than 12 hours was "uninteresting."

Although the novice would have found spanning countries at a speed of 200 miles an hour an adventure packed with thrills, it is not difficult to understand why the feat should seem more interesting to Major Doolittle from the earth than from the air. In the cockpit it was only a long, tiresome trip, but in the retrospective it assumes a new importance as another long step in the progress of transportation and communication between nations.

Flights are interesting; flying uninteresting to aviators of the Doolittle type. With them the important thing is not the mere covering of air miles but the demonstrating of the possibility of breakfasting in Canada and dining in Mexico the same day.

HOME—WHAT IS IT!

Home means more than four walls, infinitely more. Anyone can build or buy four walls and fill them with inanimate things, but it requires love to make a home. There are few words in any language more beautiful, more full of meaning than the word home.

It matters not whether the abode is "parlor, bedroom and bath" or whether it is a stately mansion surrounded by landscaped acres. If the hearts therein are right, it is a home in the beautiful and enduring sense.

Home is the place where those who dwell therein find contentment and enjoyment, rest and inspiration to do the greater things in life. Home is the place, above all others, where love, sincerity, honesty and good cheer should reign supreme. Home is the place where one's friends may share those joys, and sorrows too, if they come, and with the intimate members of the family, possess the happiness that is sure to abide there.

These truths need emphasis nowadays. Many influences are at work to destroy homes and alienate affections from them. Whatever the counter attractions maye be, they in time lose their appeal, and those who have followed them come to see there is no contentment in them.

One vital reason for having a home is to be able to share it with friends, to be able to extend a generous hospitality and good cheer.

LABOR AND REVIVING BUSINESS

It is interesting to note that the American Federation of Labor has warmly indorsed the plans of President Hoover looking to the thawing out of frozen assets and the revival of industry. A survey made by the federation begins with the statement that "unquestionably underlying factors in the business situation are gradually improving." Coming from an organization which extends into all sections of the country, this is a most important statement. It is obviously based upon ascertained facts. The federation has facilities for obtaining information, and its members are vitally concerned with the truth concerning the employment situation.

But the official statement is not confined to a broad assertion. It goes into details and explains itself thus: "Debts are being paid off; replacement demand is accumulating; consumer industries continue to increase production; business firms have been improving efficiency; many inefficient units have been eliminated by failure; plans are being discussed to assure jobs for workers this winter." It is rightly claimed that these are influences which create business recovery. We should remember that they are progressing steadily, "although certain other factors at present prevent them from becoming fully effective."

All this bespeaks a spirit of optimism which is to be commended. Cheerfulness is in the air. Leaders of industry have faced the facts; they make no attempt to minimize actual conditions; but they are satisfied that, having reached bottom, we are now ready to make the climb upward. Those who are the first to accept this view will be the first to reap the benefits which come to persons endowed with courage and enthusiasm.

All Of Us

Nothing to Worry About
Shame, Confession, Death, Dares
And Family Albums

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Sometimes, with horror, we realize that we have done something of which we are terribly ashamed. . . . Then we say to ourselves, "Did I really do that? Did I say that thing? . . . Yes, you said it, you did it.' But, on the other hand, at some time in your life you did a brave or a sacrificing thing—which makes amends, a little, for the meanness. . . . It's best not to spend too much time thinking, either, of our degradation or of our nobility.

* * *

I heard a man say of another man whom the first man adored: "I'm a saturated solution of that man's personality." . . . Only a strong man is capable of giving such credit to another human being. The weak pretend they owe nothing to anybody. Einstein ofen worries about his debt to previous thinkers.

* * *

When you carry a grudge against another human being, if you say to yourself, "Suppose the friend with whom I am offended died tonight and I never saw him again," the burden of the grudge will slip from your shoulders and you will be free. . . . Death shrinks all smaller evils.

* * *

When I was a boy I read a story that impressed me greatly at the time. A man said to a boy who wanted a bicycle, "I'll give you one for your birthday if you'll sweep my barn every day for a month. On the odd dates you must sweep from east to west, on the even dates from west to east." . . . The boy did it, but one day, after he had finished his chore, he realized he had swept in the wrong direction. . . . He worried about it and finally confessed his mistake. . . . The man, as a reward for honesty, gave him the bicycle anyway.

Once I thought that a beautiful, moral tale, but of late I've begun to doubt the man's intelligence.

* * *

When we are young we believe that when another boy says "I dare you!" it is almost a divine command. . . . As we grow older we understand that he "dares" us to do only the things he is confident he can do, and we lose faith in other people's dares. . . . Or we should do so.

* * *

It's a pity the Family Album has gone out. It was interesting, it was more illuminating than any bare genealogical chart, and it never frightened any young men away—though more than one young lady was afraid it might.

Labor's Action Against Dole Credited To Sound Policies

Public Believes Interests Of Federation Are Advanced By Rejection Of Pleas For Indorsement Of Unemployment Insurance

Sound leadership by President William Green is recognized by the country in its comments on the action of the American Federation of Labor, at its Vancouver convention, in voting against proposals for indorsement of unemployment insurance. It is held generally that the interest of organized labor, particularly freedom of action, are served in taking this position.

"Labor and capital agreed, thus far," according to the DAYTON DAILY NEWS, "that unemployment insurance should be a matter for private arrangement. Only in case business fails to do the private job will labor be pressing for unemployment remedies through political agencies." The SCRANTON TIMES points out that "there is a vast difference between the dole as a permanent institution and the government providing millions or billions to tide the country over the present situation," and that "President Green, in opposing the dole proposal, made that fact plain, and declared that he would appear before Congress as soon as it convened, and demand relief without delay."

An explanation offered by the CHICAGO DAILY NEWS is that "the Federation sees in the dole a menace to the integrity of the labor movement," and that paper observes that "others, not concerned with the Federation's point of view, see in it an uneconomic and anti-social program, a system of inviting greater perils than it is designed to avert." The Daily News continues: "Ingenious ways of beating its regulations have made it a means for prolonging idleness. It is developing a class with a 'hobo' mentality, it operates to prevent such readjustments of wages as sound economic reasoning demands, and it is heaping an intolerable burden of taxation on a crippled industrial system. There is reason for satisfaction that in this country, however the avenues of approach to the problem may differ, organized labor and the common sense of the citizens generally agree that the dole is to be avoided. The nine-point relief program adopted by the Federation's convention is, in the main, well within reasonable lines. Some of its recommendations may appear impracticable, but none is radical and not a few have been approved by recognized leaders of social and economic thought."

"The Federation advanced itself in public esteem and confidence by its conservative attitude," in the opinion of the HARRISBURG TELEGRAPH and the MILWAUKEE SENTIN[illegible] concludes: "It is too easy to strain an unemployment insurance system to the breaking point when the government stands ready to pay. The government guaranty encourages industry to pass its responsibility on to the state." The HAMILTON EVENING JOURNAL agrees that "altogether, the pronouncements of the Federation were of a high order of statesmanship, and put organized labor in an unassailable position."

Observing that the convention upheld its resolutions committee, the NEWARK EVENING NEWS declares: "An administration victory in a closely fought contest, the outcome demonstrates that conservatism along the lines of policy laid down by the late Samuel Gompers still rules not only its directing councils, but the rank and file. * * * It is apparent that the year which has passed since the question was last considered has seen a switching of position by some organization leaders, and that the passage of another year without improvement in employment may revise if not reverse the verdict given. But the majority of these spokesmen for the more than 3,000,000 affiliated workers now hold that conditions have not yet reached a point at which expediency should replace the foundations upon which the Federation was built."

"The Federation's decision to oppose the dole is in line with its own best traditions," thinks the ROCKFORD REGISTER-REPUBLIC, while the SOUTH BEND TRIBUNE points out that "the dole is a socialistic system which tends to put all workers on the same level," and the GREEN BAY PRESS-GAZETTE states that labor in this country "wants America, its roots are deep in American soil and its traditions are the traditions of America." The DULUTH HERALD remarks that "organized labor again shows itself a real bulwark of sanity and reason and order." The OSHKOSH DAILY NORTHWESTERN asserts: "It may prove, in the future writing of history, that this action of the Federation was paramount in importance to any vote on the records of organized labor." The SPRINGFIELD (MASS.) REPUBLICAN finds that "the Federation's unwavering opposition to revolutionary radicalism has been thoroughly established."

"This does not mean," according to the MANCHESTER UNION, "that some provision should not be made in our industrial economy to safeguard the worker against enforced idleness. That such a safeguard is necessary is the opinion today of most American economists. One proposal for meeting this need is a program of economic planning whereby industry will be able to forecast the approach of depression and make adjustments in advance to prevent reduced employment. The other is a system of unemployment insurance, such as has been introduced by the General Electric company, which would be introduced by each local industry, and supported solely by that industry and its employes. This system has much to commend it. It is probable that any adequate scheme for meeting the unemployment problem should include both of these proposals. In any event, the leaders of the Federation are correct in their insistence that it is work and not relief that the American worker wants."

Advising that "it is folly to hire a man unless he is doing useful work," the WHEELING INTELLIGENCER advises: "The idle and needy of this country must be taken care of, of course. But let's not fool ourselves. Let's find out first if they can be put to work productively before taking a laborious, circuitous and expensive route to what might be reached more simply and honestly by that which the English call the "dole'."

OUTSPOKEN FRIENDS

You envy the person who has many associates who seem to be congenial.

In comparing that person with yourself you think of him as a "yes" man.

But no man can have a lot of friends and keep them unless he has the temerity to stand up for what he thinks is right.

In doing so he needs not be arbitrary or abusive.

You are inclined to be both arbitrary and abusive and yet you expect too much of those whom you call friends.

You think those friendly to you should stand by you no matter what you do or say, and whether you are right or wrong.

To demand that a person support you no matter what your position is, is requiring too much of any person.

You don't do it yourself for any of those who you consider friends.

Why expect others to be more liberal than you are yourself?

Often the very best of friends differ with each other.

A good friend may tell you of your weaknesses.

One of the drawbacks to good friendships is that too few are willing to take issue with a friend and state blunt, though unpleasant facts.

But such a friend is of real value to you; you need this kind.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

WISE FISHERMEN

The day the fish were biting
Fortune smiled upon us all.
The chap who'd never fished before
Caught all that he could eat and more,
And scorned to take 'em small.
As long as luck filled up the pan
He thought he was a fisherman.

When anywhere you cast a line
A bass would take the bait.
There was no need to learn the stream,
To row the boat and plan and scheme,
Or patient, sit and wait.
When fortune's sun is shining high
Who stops to think of how and why?

But when the wind was from the east
And luck no more would do,
Some wise old-timer, shrewed and gray,
Who knew the game and knew the way,
Would always catch a few.
Where others couldn't get a bite
Somehow he'd land his meal by night.

The easy fishing days are gone,
When fortune smiled on all.
One must be patient, wise and strong,
Try here and there and move along
Till shades of evening fall.
Wise fishermen, when out of luck,
Fall back on knowledge, patience, pluck.

Einstein Reports Theory Of Fifth

Theory Of Fifth Added By German Scientist To Four Known Dimensions Of Universe

Years Of Study Results In Successful Conclusion For Great Savant

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Dr. Albert Einstein, whose relativity theory is said to be understood by only 12 men in the world in all its significance, has added the theory of a fifth to the known four-dimensions of the universe.

A statement indicating this was written by him, and was made public today by the Josiah Macy Jr. Foundation which helped finance the German savant's experiments at Mt. Wilson, California, earlier this year.

Dr. Einstein has not changed his theory of relativity, the statement made plain. But he changed his concepts of the universe because a five dimensional universe is essential to a formula that basically makes electricity and gravity identical.

The statement disclosed that Einstein and his assistant, Dr. Walter Mayer, had evolved part of a work setting forth a new unified field theory.

The one he announced in 1929, and on which he had labored for ten years, will be supplanted by the studies just completed, the announcement said.

Some of his older ideas of the universe, Einstein asserted, were "shattered as with a hammer blow" by discoveries of modern American astronomers. Of special import he found the theory that the universe was "exploding or expanding."

Donations To Be Very Useful This Winter At Hospital

Very Excellent Yield From Two Fold Donation Days Last Week

The great collection of fruit and vegetables given to the Jameson Memorial hospital from citizens of the city and county, is being stored away today in the food supply rooms of the hospital.

Friday and Saturday, of last week, designated by the Jameson Hospital Aide Society as the days when the ingathering of the food donations would be made, resulted in a much larger amount of food gifts than was expected.

Thus another annual campaign for the collection of canned and fresh fruit and vegetables for use by the hospital patients is ended and proved more successful than any previous drive. The yield will be greatly appreciated this winter by the patients.

Big Still Found Near New Bedford, Operator Jailed

Constables Get 75 Gallon Still, 12 Barrels Of Mash, Five Gallon Liquor

In default of $1,500 bail John Deagh, a Roumanian, was committed to the Lawrence county jail on Saturday evening to await a hearing before Squire C. L. Zedaker of New Bedford on a charge of operating a still.

The still, which was unearthed by Constables Robert McClenahan of New Bedford, Constable Rodgers of Pulaski and Constables John Miller and DeGraff Robinson of this city, was one of the largest ever discovered in the county. It had a capacity of 75 gallons. Along with the still the officers seized 12 barrels of mash and about five gallons of finished moonshine.

When the officers reached the Doagh home, which is located on what is known as the Porter farm on Coffee run, they found Doagh in bed. The still was not in operation. It was located in a large chicken house which had been carefully covered with tar paper.

Doagh was unable to speak much English and the officers were unable to ascertain who was interested with him in the still. It is believed, however, that the still belonged to parties near Youngstown, O., who had employed Doagh to operate it.

The still and liquor were confiscated and the mash destroyed. Doagh was unable to furnish $1,500 bail and was committed to jail for a hearing on next Wednesday evening.

South Carolina Farmer Is Held Under Heavy Guard After Surrender

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)

WAGENER, S. C., Oct. 26.—George Jackson, 35-year-old Aiken county farmer, charged with killing six kinsmen, apparently without provocation, was captured at his home near here today by a sheriff's posse.

He surrendered without a fight, his 11-year-old daughter walking from his barricaded home to tell Sheriff J. P. Howard that he would give himself up.

He refused to make any statement explaining why he had suddenly opened fire with shotgun and pistol, fatally wounding six relatives.

Sheriff Howard placed Jackson under heavy guard and rushed him to the state penitentiary in Columbia to safeguard him from lynching.

Blind Preacher At Reformed Church

Evangelistic Services Will Be Held This Week With Rev. R. A. Blair As Speaker

This week it is more than likely the New Castle residents will frequently see a blind man being led along the street by a German shepherd dog, as Rev. R. A. Blair, of Parnassus, the blind pastor, will be the speaker at evangelistic services being held in the Reformed Presbyterian church each evening this week.

Rev. R. A. Blair is pastor of the Reformed Presbyterian church at Parnassus and although totally blind, attends to all his pastoral duties and goes about to places he knows, with the aid of his German shepherd dog, "Dot", who guides him through traffic.

Rev. Blair was an outstanding student when he attended Geneva College and later at Princeton he won fame for himself on the debating teams. For a while after completing his course he was pastor of a church at Utica, Ohio, and then went to China as a missionary and it was while on the mission field that his eye trouble began and after many years of battling, under the care of many specialists, he finally completely lost his vision.

He is not hindered by this handicap in attending to his duties as pastor of a church. He uses a typewriter and carries on his own correspondence, he makes his pastoral calls and goes on speaking tours throughout the country.

He has had his dog "Dot" for the past three years and with the animal to guide him he goes many places through heavy traffic, travels by trolley and train in a really remarkable manner.

Rev. Blair will be the house guest of Dr. E. A. Crooks, pastor of the Reformed Presbyterian church while here.

Visitors Take Private Sight-Seeing Trip In Great Metropolis

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—A middle-aged man, wearing a business suit and a white bow tie, and a radiant dark girl of 19, dressed in a brown and white check "kiki" dress, a tiny tam-o-shanter with its flat rust feather cocked over one eye, a blue fox fur, brown silk stockings and alligator shoes, popped their heads out of one of the cellar exits of the Waldorf-Astoria at 9:30 this morning.

Everything looked autumnal and snappy and inspiring, and especially safe, so they emerged cut east and turned the corner onto Fifth avenue.

That was the last seen of Pierre Laval, premier of France, his daughter Jose, who escaped from their escorts and their hosts and hostesses and embarked on a very private and unofficial sightseeing tour of New York.

Mlle. Laval admitted this morning that she was a little tired with feteing, but tremendously enthralled with it all. Neither she nor her distinguished father can get over New York and its terribly long buildings.

At 11:30 they met the man in the brown derby and he took them along to see a little building of his. The building is the Empire State tallest skyscraper in the world. And the man under the brown derby was Al Smith.

Expect Upturn In Steel Production

(International News Service)

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 26.—With a noticeable improvement in finishing mill operations, steel leaders in the Mahoning district today were confident that the decline in steel mill operations had touched bottom and that an upturn can now be expected.

Actual operations for this week are expected to show little change with 19 of the 66 open hearths in use. Steel production was estimated at about 26 per cent of capacity.

Bar mills were running unchanged in corporation plants and somewhat lower in the independent operations. Some improvement was noted in tin plate mills.

The Stevens Metal Products Company at Niles was unusually busy fabricating a large order for metal alcohol drums.

School Children To Present Revue

Benefit Performances To Be Given Wednesday And Thursday Nights

In the fall of 1930 a fund of approximately $1800 was created from a benefit football game, the proceeds of which were used entirely to provide food and clothing for school children whose needs were plainly of an emergency character.

The necessity for such a fund in the schools is greater this year and to meet this need, the school children themselves are presenting an "Autumn Revue" in the Senior High school auditorium Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

The price of the revenue is 25 and 50 cents and every dime realized from the play will be used for no other purpose than the relief fund in the schools.

For weeks the children have been rehearsing under the direction of Miss Gladys Rich, Supervisor of Music. The cast is gathered from every public school in the city, with special skits presented by a number of the schools.

The cause is a worthy one and it is urged that every person in the city endeavor to see the revue or failing to do that, see to it that somebody goes on a ticket purchased for it.

Family Of Three Seek Fortune By Capturing 250,000 Wild Goats

By J. F. DENTON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 26.—The modern quest for Jason's Golden Fleece was expected to net several men, their wives and children a fortune if they are successful in capturing and selling the 250,000 wild goats on Guadalupe Island.

Employing the methods used by the West's wild mustang hunters, the adventurers will build corrals, fence in the springs and water holes and round up the wild animals which were expected to net $7 each.

Failure dogged the steps of the first attempt, which ended recently when a coast guard cutter rescued the goat hunters who had exhausted their food supply and were out of money.

Though present plans call for making expense money by killing the male goats and selling the meat and hides to nearby Mexico, the hunters plan to improve the strain and produce Angora wool for the market.

The plan to develop this unique resource of nature was evolved by M. E. Watson, his wife, Mrs. Grace Watson, and their son Junior, during their 10-months residence on the island, 213 miles south of San Diego and 150 miles off the coast of Mexico.

Through the efforts of these dreamers a company has been formed to raise funds for the project, which will be started January 1, 1932.

Besides trapping the goats by building fences around all available water holes and forcing them to jump into the trap to get drink, other parts of the island will be stocked with other wild game for future hunting purposes.

After the goats are trapped the males will be slaughtered and prepared for market, they explain. Then the Angora stock will be introduced to create a valuable wool source.

The goats, now wild, got their start when the Dutch landed on the island over 200 years ago. Burrows are also plentiful, thus solving the transportation problem, since they can be taught and trained easily.

Cobbler Potatoes Are Successful

New Variety Grown By Slippery Rock Man Yields Well

SLIPPERY ROCK, Pa., Oct. 26.—Nearly two acres of cobblers, a comparatively new variety of potato in this section of the country, were raised this year on the Thomas Dennison farm near Slippery Rock.

The cobblers are an early potato, being planted from the middle to the latter part of April. They are distinguished from the russets by a light smooth skin. Mr. Dennison planted forty bushels of this kind of seed early this spring. The seed, which was certified, came from Potter county. The measured yield was 326 bushels per acre.

Mr. Dennison also planted over seven acres of certified Michigan russets. His best yield was 395 bushels per acre. The crop, which amounted to 3000 bushels, will be sold for seed only.

Although the yield was not quite so large this year as formerly, said Mr. Dennison, the potatoes are better shaped. Almost the whole crop was graded into three sizes. Only five per cent of the potatoes were graded out as not fit for seed.

The potato plants were checked by authorities for disease while growing. No disease was found in the russets, while very little was found in the cobblers. Any plant that was diseased was destroyed.

DR. McCUTCHEON ABSOLVED TODAY

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.—After an investigation by Deputy Attorney General A. Lee Edwards, Gov. Gifford Pinchot today absolved Dr. R. H. McCutcheon, director of the Mount Alto Sanatorium, of a series of charges made against him.

Charges against Dr. McCutcheon included taking of an "improper hand in politics," that gambling and drinking were permitted at the institution, that state property was improperly used by the staff and that there was marked partiality in the treatment of patients.

The governor placed the blame for the trouble on "improper meddling by a clergyman" whom he refused to name.

QUANTITY BUYING CUTS APPLE COST

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26. — The most economical way to purchase apples is by the barrel or bushel, state bureau of market officials today explained in a timely statement to housewives. "Become familiar with the best varieties for eating raw, cooking and general purposes, and purchase the best for the particular requirement," the market specialists urged. "To insure the greatest value, purchase well graded fruit which has been grown in Pennsylvania.

Two Pittsburgh Officers Risk Lives For Bomb

Policemen Find Theater About To Be Bombed — Grab Dynamate Fuse And Foil Plot

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26.—Two patrolmen assigned to the southside radio scout car today received praise from their fellow officers for risking their lives to remove a sputtering dynamite bomb from the lobby of a theater recently involved in labor trouble.

James Challis and Patrick Coyne, the two policemen, were telephoning headquarters when a passing motorist informed them that an automobile had stopped before the theater and one of two men had hurled a bomb into the lobby.

The bomb was sputtering on the left side of the lobby a few feet inside a heavy wire fence erected when the theater is closed. Lying face downward on the floor, Challis dragged the bomb out. The two patrolmen were unable to extinguish the fuse by trampling it. They tore the fuse away and thew the bomb into the street.

Police said motion picture projectionists at the theater were on strike. The dynamite was turned over to the bomb and arson squad.

Grove City Poor Are Mining Coal

Dig Winter's Supply From Old Strip Mine On Borough Property

GROVE CITY, Pa., Oct. 26.—An echo of the coal mining days of 25 years ago and longer when Grove City was the center of a populous district engaged in the operation of a score of mines, is returned in the mining activities now under way at Memorial park. Here on an average of 100 men are digging coal daily from an excavation left by a coal stripping operation.

The coal is the property of the city, a part of the park lands. Men out of employment and without funds to buy their winter supply are given orders by the central relief committee to dig their own. They are allowed 15 tons each. This amount of coal will be hauled for them free by the trucks donated for this work. Widows in need are sent sufficient through the donation of the diggers.

As many as 200 men have been at work there in one day. Each man is allowed to [illegible] The openings occur side by side and are said to resemble the placer mining days of the gold rush.

To insure the safety of the amateur miners the committee has employed Peter Hay, an experienced mine boss, to supervise the mining. The coal taken out is that left after the stripping operation was complete. It is estimated that 200,000 tons have already been mined. There is plenty to supply the demand, says the committee. Only those unable to pay are allowed to mine and no one is allowed to sell a pound of coal.

IS MASONIC SPEAKER

Dr. C. A. Platt of the college faculty is in demand as a speaker at the Masonic functions now being held in Pennsylvania lodges in commemoration of the 200th anniversary of the establishment of lodges in the colony.

At the banquet held by the New Castle lodges on October 23 he was the speaker. He will also appear on the program of the banquet here October 27 when the Grove City, Mercer and Sandy Lake lodges banquet.

Dropping the gold standard was a shrewd and wise bit of statesmanship which England intends to undo as soon as she can.

Peter Andrews Is Brought Back Here

Admits Part In Two Holdup Jobs Here, According To The Police

Peter Andrews, arrested in Dearborn, Michigan, at the request of the local police authorities, was brought back to this city about six o'clock Sunday morning by County Detective H. M. Lee, Assistant County Detective Bernard Rocks and City Detective John Young. He is being held in the city jail, pending the making of a thorough investigation by the local police authorities.

On the arrival of the local officers at Dearborn, Andrews signed waivers, eliminating the necessity of getting extradition papers, after which he made a complete confession in which he admitted participation in the holdups at the Wajert Drug store and Rote Confectionery store, the officers state.

Since his arrival he has been identified by others as one of the participants in these two holdups. Indications are that he will enter a plea to charges to be made against him in connection with the two holdups and avoid the necessity of holding a court trial.

GOLDEN ROD EATEN BY COWS CAUSES POISON

(International News Service)

TECUMSEH, Okla., Oct. 26—A herd of cows at the state training school for girls was moved today to new pastures after investigators reported to Governor William H. Murray that the illness of 90 girls in the institution was due to the fact the cows had been eating goldenrod.

Considerable excitement was caused and a state inquiry started when it was feared for a time that poison had been placed in the girl's food.

Physicians said today all the girls would recover.

Dear Brother Lion:—

Regular monthly business meeting tomorrow for members only. A complete report will be given of the proceedings at the meeting of the board of directors.

The activities of all committees will be given. Did you know that there are 80,456 Lions, 2,491 clubs in five countries of the world? Three hundred and thirty-three of these clubs were organized last year.

Very truly yours,
THOMAS I. ELLIOTT,
Secretary.

VEGETABLE FREAKS AT SLIPPERY ROCK

SLIPPERY ROCK, Pa., Oct. 26.—The tall story club should record this one. Leslie Crooker is the grower of a stalk of corn 15 feet in length with two mamouth ears on it. The larger of the two is 19 inches in length.

Beets weighing 2½ pounds each, cabbages with four heads and a two-pound tomato are some other neighborhood monstrosities.

HERMIT KILLED BY SNAKES IN CABIN

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 26.—Rattlesnakes who sought to share his one-room shack on Huckleberry Mountain have claimed the life of Oscar Eastman, "hermit."

Visitors to his shack found him dead, his body pitted and swollen from rattlesnake bites. It was believed that cold weather had driven the snakes into the warmth of the cabin.

"Better Stocks" In Exchange Should Be Investigated

Owners Of Securities Advised To Investigate New Offerings

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.—"Don't exchange any of your stock holdings for others whose present and future value is being boosted by a smooth salesman until you have investigated the move very carefully," J. M. Magee, chairman of the Pennsylvania Securities Commission, urged today.

One of the first things to do in such a case, according to Magee, is to make sure that the salesman has been licensed to sell securities in Pennsylvania.

Owing to the depressed condition of securities generally, Magee said, tipster operatives have been particularly active. They appeal to persons who have a paper loss on securities and offer to exchange the present holdings for stock which will insure an early rise and complete recovery of the holder's losses. The stocks offered in exchange are almost invariably fraudulent securities of no value whatever.

FARMER ACCIDENTALLY SHOT BY RELATIVE

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa., Oct. 26.—John J. Leighgeber, 38, of New Sewickley township, is in the Beaver Valley Hospital with a gunshot wound in the right leg. It was reported that Leighgeber walked in front of Leonard Barkus, his brother-in-law, who was shooting at rats with a small rifle.

Warns Hunters Of Rules In Forests

Must Not Drive Spikes Or Bolts Into Forest Trees

Using Trees For Target Practice Is Also Prohibited

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.—The one and one-half million acres of Pennsylvania State Forests are wide open for hunters and sportsmen generally, but the rules regulating their use must be obeyed. A form of abuse, seriously injurios to timber trees and dangerous to human life, cited by John W. Keller, Deputy Secretary of the Department of Forests and Waters, is committed by hunters who drive spikes and bolts into trees that they may climb up to observe game animals, especially deer.

State Forest rangers report that in time the woody growth of the trees cover these spikes and bolts. Later when the trees are felled and taken to the sawmills serious accidents are liable to result from swiftly-running saws striking the embedded iron.

Deliberately using living trees as targets by discharging rifle bullets into their trunks is also a violation of the State Forest rules.

Circular saws in a modern saw mill may operate at speeds as high as 10,000 feet per minute, rim travel. The centrifugal force and tension of these thin saws are very great and upon striking an object, such as a spike or steel bullet in the wood, they may break or fly to pieces with considerable risk to the operators.

"The thoughtless hunter who shoots into a young sapling merely for the purpose of target practice may be the cause, many years later, of the death of some mill sawyer," said Deputy Secretary Keller. "The practice is inexcusable and State Forest officers will be alert for violations of the Act of 1925, which provides a penalty of $25.00 for wilfully or maliciously injuring trees growing in the State Forests.

"The majority of hunters, realizing their sport depends upon the forest, are as careful to protect the woods as the State Forest officers. Sportsmen are anxious to break up any practice that tends to injure trees, and the Department of Forests and Waters earnestly seeks their co-operation in the enforcement of the forest protection laws.

Grade Crossings Being Eliminated

Pennsylvania Shows Big Increase In Elimination Of Grade Crossings

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 26.—Pennsylvania did almost one-fifth as much in the fiscal year ended June thirtieth, last, toward elimination of grade crossings on federal-aid highways as in the fourteen immediate preceding years.

A study of figures of the Bureau of Public Roads made available today reveals that in the fiscal year ended June thirtieth, Pennsylvania federal-aid roads were made more safe through the elimination of 29 grade crossings. Bureau records going back as far as 1917 show that from 1917 to the fiscal year of 1930, only 160 grade crossings were eliminated on Pennsylvania federal-aid highways.

These figures indicate that in the single fiscal year of 1931, Pennsylvania did away with almost one-fifth as many dangerous grade crossings on federal-aid highways as in the fourteen-year period preceding.

Since 1917, a total of 5,583 grade crossings have been eliminated on federal-aid road projects in the country as a whole. Last fiscal year, 683 of these dangerous spots were obliterated.

Elimination of grade crossings is regarded by the Public Roads Bureau as the only positive means of reducing the heavy toll of human life taken annually at points where highways and railways cross. The various protective devices at such crossings do not provide adequate protection on heavily traveled roads, the bureau contends.

Restoration Of War Excise Tax Would Be Costly

Would Add Five Millions Annually To Cost To State Motorists

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 26.—Restoration of the federal war excise tax on motor vehicles as proposed by the treasury department would cost motorists of Pennsylvania in the neighborhood of five million dollars annually, according to figures made available by the American Automobile association.

This tax was repealed in 1928. The treasury department is now advocating its restoration as a means of balancing the national budget.

As a result of this tax in 1927, the last during which it was collected, motorists of the nation paid $66,437,881 into the national coffers . Of this amount, $4,916,270 came out of the pocketbooks of Pennsylvania motorists.

Since automobile registrations have increased considerably since that time, it is estimated that this tax would be even heavier should it be reimposed now.

The American Automobile association believes the return of this tax would pyramid the burden "on the heaviest taxed, non-luxury form of property in the United States"; would retard recovery of the motor industry and work a particular hardship on the farmers and poorer classes of motor-using public.

Fall Reunion Of Consistory Will Start Wednesday

Expect Fairly Large Class Will Receive Degrees Here This Week

Plans have been completed for the annual fall reunion of the New Castle Consistory, A. A. S. R., which will open on Wednesday in the Cathedral, coming to a close with the customary dinner party on Friday evening.

In spite of conditions, it is expected that a large class of candidates from New Castle and the surrounding district will be in attendance, and Commander In Chief Walter S. Reynolds is looking forward to a most successful reunion.

The committee in charge of the dinner club party on Friday evening expects to have an attractive program for this event, and a large attendance is being planned for.

"Free Lot" Sales May Prove Costly

Various Ways In Which The Public Is Hoodwinked By Promoters

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 26.—There are many ways in which the public is deceived in connection with the buying of real estate, according to a statement made today by Robert W. Semenow, director of real estate licensing in the Department of Public Instruction, in which the real estate brokers' license law is administered.

There are various ways in which this deception is carried out. Prominent among these, Semenow said, are the modifications of the "free lot racket" in the form of word and traffic puzzles, where a lot is awarded for the correct solution of the puzzle. The word "free" may be omitted. The so-called lucky person is usually required to pay a sum of money ranging from $25 to $59 to cover the costs of conveyancing.

The amount paid is generally more than the lot is worth; or the lot given away may be accepted to a $500 valuation in exchange for a more desirable lot at $1,000, and the difference in price is more than the "desirable" lot is worth.

Another proposition to accept worthless stocks in part payment of lots, the price of the lots being increased to offset the trade-in value of the stock. Caution should be exercised in exchanging lots for other lots where more cash is demanded under promise of a resale of the new lots at a profit, Semenow asserted.

In applying for a mortgage loan, care should be taken to deal with a responsible concern before paying an advance fee, as the mortgage may not be granted and the advance payment cannot be recovered.

The real estate brokers' license law requires every real estate broker and salesman to be licensed annually by the commonwealth. All real estate agents are required to carry their 1931 credentials with them.

Legion Of Honor To Meet Wednesday

Members of the Legion of Honor of the New Castle Consistory will hold their regular meeting on Wednesday evening, the opening day of the annual fall reunion.

With many members expected in attendance from outside points, the officers are making special plans for the meeting and many events of importance will be reviewed and plans for the winter's activities made.

Chief of Police Dan M. Baker arrested the two men and reported finding several chicken heads.

Apply Early For Auto License Tags Is Postal Appeal

Seek To Prevent Jam In Latter Part Of December In Postoffices

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 26.—The United States Post Office Department has requested Postmaster Crawford of New Castle to stress to postal patrons the advisability of applying early for 1932 license tags.

The department has been advised by the Revenue Department of Pennsylvania that approximately 1,875,000 auto license tags will be issued for 1932, the majority of which will be mailed prior to January 1, 1932.

"Inasmuch as 491,121 tags were mailed in the last half of December 1930, 292,927 of which were mailed between December 16 and 23, all postmasters of Pennsylvania should stress the importance of making application for automobile tags now in connection with their 'early mailing' campaigns," Acting First Assistant Postmaster General Lorel N. Morgan said today. "This not only helps the car owners but relieves the mails of the burden when taxed to capacity."

Sues To Divorce Husband, Aged 73

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—A 54-year-old woman yesterday sued her 73-year-old husband for divorce, charging his relatives had forced him to leave her because of opposition to their marriage.

She is Mrs. Mary de Diemar Wright Simmons, widow of a New Haven, Conn., manufacturer. Her husband is Park Edmund Simmons, retired lawyer and art patron.

They were married last January 12 and July 30 Simmons filed suit for annullment asserting he wed Mrs. Wright because she had told him he was to become the father of her expected child. He later found her statements false, he said. That suit is still pending.

Mrs. Simmons charged that she and her aged bridegroom went honeymooning to California and that he frequently mentioned that his relatives were opposed to their marriage. On April 23, the bill continued, Simmons told his wife it would be impossible for them ever to live together because of their opposition and that he would not continue to support her.

Mrs. Simmons asserted her husband's income exceeds $27,000.

COOKING FEVER HITS BOYS IN HIGH SCHOOLS

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—There is a back to the home movement on in Chicago—and it's centered in high schools amongst the boys.

Nor are they afraid of telling about their accomplishments, taking no thought of being called "sissies." To them, domestic attainments are not only a "woman's job" and do not necessarily indicate a leaning toward bachelorhood.

The discovery of the culinary ability was made by a south side high school editor with a nose for news. He began a survey among his classmates.

"What can you do in the kitchen?" was the question.

"What can't I do," snorted a sedate senior. "I can make oat-meal, fry eggs, make tea or coffee, and get up a steak dinner, with a baker's cake thrown in. More than that, I can grab the darning basket, patch my socks, sew on a button and press my suit."

"Fry frog's legs to a queen's taste," shot back another. "I can fry steaks and chops which would do justice to a $5 banquet," he went on. "The way I cook eggs not only makes them taste good but look good."

Others have their specialties, such as spaghetti, potato pancakes, fudge and apple sauce, while all sew. A freshman coasted of his bacon and eggs and stews, while a senior modestly admitted his proficiency with chops.

It has been found through tests, that city din fails to impair hearing, but the nerves of students are affected

GIRL SCOUTS

TROOP HAS HIKE

The Girl Scouts of Troop 14, or the Wan-i-ta troop, donned their hiking boots Saturday and like a troop of Indians tripped through autumn leaves, scaring many a squirrel who was stealing his winter meal.

With songs of glee and jolly games the girls worked up an honest-to-goodness appetite and then, with a few sticks, a dandy fire was built and soon the air was filled with the odor of hot dogs. When put between buns what a meal they had. They were so heavy on their feet that they thought they should have to hitch hike but no, they arrived safely.

The Scouts will be ready for a taffy pull promised for next Saturday. The leader, Kathleen Wettich, chaperoned the members on the hike— Mary A. Carey, Margaret Mary Wadlinger, Betty Fee, Agnes Mescall, Eleanor Quinn Dot Hogue, Mary Mescall, Mary Wadlinger, Jean Metz, Dot Campbell, Eileen Smith, Cleora Fozzy and Rose Anna Hagan.

Catarrhal Deafness May Be Overcome.

If you have catarrhal deafness or head noises go to New Castle Drug, Eckerd's or your druggist and get 1 oz. of Parmint (double strength) and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

Special Session Of Legislature To Cost Over Quarter Million

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.—The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania will spend in the neighborhood of $275,000 to diagnose unemployment ills and to devise, if possible, remedial measures for the ailments.

That figure is the estimated cost of the special legislative session to be called by Gov. Gifford Pinchot for November 9. It is based on expenditures for extraordinary sessions held by Pennsylvania in the past.

The 1926 special session, called by Governor Pinchot in his first administration cost $273,561.69, State Treasury records disclose. That gathering got under way on January 13 and ended on February 18. The special session called by Governor Pennypacker in 1906 continued for just a month, and the cost at that time was placed at approximately the same figure. By limiting the subject matter to unemployment relief, Governor Pinchot hopes the forthcoming session will require no longer than a month to handle the problems entrusted to it.

Included in the estimate of the cost of a special session are certain charges which remain absolute and unchanged whether the legislature requires a month or whether it needs three months to transact its business.

Each member of the Assembly receives $500 for a special session. This is just one-sixth of the amount he gets for the regular session. The presiding officers of the two branches receive an extra $500 for their work.

Factors tending to vary the cost of the session according to its length are the fees paid to numerous Senate and House attaches who receive amounts anywhere from $5 to $10 a day while the legislature is convened.

The major expense items, according to treasury records of the 1926 special session, included Senate costs of $63,421.60, House expenses of $182,232.80; printing and binding, $26,655.29, and Legislative Journal expenses, $1,252.

The Senators' salaries for the 1926 special session totaled $25,500 and their mileage ran to $4,487.70. Members of the House received $104,500 in salaries and $20,141.70 for mileage.

Other items of Senate expense were: Compiling Senate history, $250; chief clerk's postage, $75; postage of Journal and for bills, $500; salaries of officers and employes, $22,758, with mileage totaling $1740; appropriation committee's expenses, $1,250; contingent, $500; chief clerk's expenses, $3500, and postage for members, $2500.

House expenses, aside from salaries and mileage of members, were: Chief clerk's postage, $75; salaries of officers and employes, $32,043; their mileage, $2873.10; appropriation committee's expenses, $2700; speaker's contingent expenses, $500; chief clerk's incidental expenses, $4000; members' postage, $10,475, and postage of Journal and for bills, $4925.

Pinchot Advocates Higher Income Tax

Declares Rich Should Pay Greater Share Of Aiding Unemployed

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Declaring "the more fortunate in this world's goods ought to take the same share in the adversity of the Nation that they have taken in its prosperity," Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania today was on record as advocating an increase in the higher brackets of the Federal income tax, or an excess profits tax, or similar enactments to aid the unemployed and destitute of the nation.

Speaking before the Men's Club of the First Congregational Church at Flushing, N. Y., Governor Pinchot declared there is more than one American whose personal fortune, alone and unaided, could carry the whole national load of relieving distress among the unemployed and, similarly, more than one Pennsylvanian whose private fortune would suffice to fully alleviate the suffering in the Keystone State.

MY NEW YORK
BY JAMES ASWELL

By Central Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—What few New Yorkers know:

That if you want to commit suicide, you should pick some place distant from the Battery, where Peter "Buck" McNeil is on guard. He has more life saving medals than any man alive, including a diamond one for plucking 256 persons from death in the waters off lower Manhattan.

That until a few years ago one of the largest department stores in town used to start each day's business with a hymn service. And they send runaway girls back home from pious New York!

That Captain Kidd lived in the crookedest street in town—Pearl street.

That, on an average, four new businesses start up here every 42 minutes. There are still optimists.

That one of the famous cosmetic concerns features a "beauty bar" where high heels hook over the rail as another round of lipstick is ordered.

That the reason this season in the theater is so sleep-provoking is the excessive caution of producers, who were afraid to put on anything of original merit, depending upon rehashes of old hits.

That Averell Harris, villain of the Gary Cooper film, "His Woman," studied art here at the Art Students' league, while John Barrymore daubed at the next easel. Harris quit painting for an excellent reason. He found out he was color blind.

That a professional "beautician" in lower Fifth avenue will "analyze your individuality" (if any) and prescribe the clothes requirements of "your social or professional position" and will make your wardrobe allow for neckline, coloring and silhouette—all for $12.

There is only one piece of statuary in a New York public park by a woman sculptor—the equestrian statue of Joan of Arc, Ninety-third street and Riverside drive, by Anna Hyatt.

COLORS OF RAINBOW FOUND ON CORN EARS

Foot-long ears of squaw corn, colored in fantastic hues are on display in the business office of The News today after several samples of the crop had been brought here from the farm of the grower, Robert L. McCreary, R. D. 9, New Castle.

The squaw corn seed was brought here several years ago from South Dokota by Mrs. David Jameson. Several local farmers have tried the seed. The full quality of the western corn did not develop until this year when the excellent crop was raised by McCreary.

Baths Won't Reduce You, Says Doctor

Dissolving Fat Seems Logical But Isn't—Clendening

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

There is something irresistibly attractive about the idea of reducing weight by hot baths. Dissolving away the fat.

It seems logical. The bath seems to burn the fat off. You feel lighter when you get out. You are lighter, as a matter of fact, because you have lost about a pound of water. You are thirsty and water isn't fattening, you've been told, so you drink three glasses of it. Then you don't weigh yourself again. If you did you would find that the pound was back. The pound of an overweight is much more likely to come back than the British pound sterling. (That wasn't so good, but it will do as a period of depression joke, and as far as I can see it's just as good as most of the depression jokes nowadays.)

As a matter of fact, bathing of any kind does absolutely nothing to reduce weight. The physiology of the situation is all against it. If the bath did not call out any perspiration there might be a chance of its accomplishing some reduction, but when the perspiration comes out weight reduction possibilities fade.

This is because there are only three ways weight can be lost. One is by reducing the intake of food; the second is by using up more body tissue by exercise, and the third is by increasing the internal combustion and heat of the body. The bath is obviously directed toward the third of these methods. And since the evaporation of perspiration is nature's method of keeping the temperature of the body at the proper level, the fact that there is profuse perspiration after a hot bath keeps down any weight loss by internal heat. The bath does not increase internal combustion perceptibly whatever.

Medicated baths are equally futile. The ingredients of most of the bath salts designed for reducing are simply borax or epsom salts or a combination of similar simple materials. Their action, if any, is to open the pores and relax the skin. Mostly their action is nil.

Part of the psychology of the reduction bath is the feeling of lightness one has after the bath. This is due to the relaxation of the circulatory system, the reduction in blood pressure, and especially the reduction in blood pressure in the blood vessels of the brain.

And there is an element of danger in this. I was not long ago called in on an emergency call at a neighbor's. One of the members of the household had taken a medicated bath for reduction purposes and had fainted afterwards. For nearly an hour she was in a distinct state of shock.

Rev. Samuel L. Maxwell Tells Why He Resigned From American Legion

In his evening sermon delivered in the Epworth Methodist Episcopal church Sunday evening, October 25, Rev. Samuel L. Maxwell gave his reasons for resigning from the American Legion. He confined his sermon for the most part to a prepared address stating that he did not wish to run the danger of being misquoted or saying something to which he had not given careful attention.

Prefacing his sermon Rev. Maxwell said, "I want to make it clear at the outset that anything I may say is not to be considered a reflection upon the local post of the American Legion. I am resigning from the American Legion with deep regret for there is a bond of association between service men which is peculiarly binding.

Member Since 1920

"I have been a member of the Legion since 1920 and in that time have seen certain things done which I could not condone. Thinking that they may have righted themselves I remained in as an active member but the time has come when I can no longer be a member and I believe I owe it to myself to state my reasons."

Following this Rev. Maxwell set out several reasons. Briefly they were. The resolution of the Louisville convention of 1929 which called upon the United States Senate to investigate the alleged lobbying of certain "quasi-religious, pacifist, radical and Communistic organizations." Second on the list was the Federal Council of Churches in Christ. Following this organization were a number of others among them the American Civil Liberties Union, the Young Pioneers and others. "This was an uncalled for, unjust and nasty slap at my church" said Rev. Maxwell. "In spite of the fact that the Council invited the Legion to investigate its activities, nothing ever came of it."

He then criticized the convention of 1931 held in Detroit for its action in asking congress to submit to the states the question of Prohibition, charging that this was a violation of the Legion constitution and had been ruled out as a political question at many previous conventions. "This is not in line with the preamble of the Legion nor of the oath to uphold, obey and defend the Constitution," said Rev. Maxwell.

He also listed as a reason the entrance of the Legion into politics, saying that were such organizations as the Odd Fellows, Masons or any church to offer candidates because they were members of the organizations the country would rise in indignation. "Because a man was in service for six months or a year is not sufficient reason why he should be given public office," said Rev. Maxwell.

Scores High Navy Plan

He further listed as a reason, the effort of the American Legion to induce Congress to build a greater Navy. He argued that such men as General Pershing were against huge armaments, that the very presence of huge armaments inculcated the war fever and that the action of the Legion was out of step with a world peace effort.

During the World War Rev. Maxwell was a chaplain in the United States Navy. In that time he served aboard vessels that made regular trips to and from France in and out of the war zone.

About 300 people heard the sermon, among them a group of members of the Perry S. Gaston Post, No. 343, American Legion.

Physicians Lose Battle To Save Cleveland Boy

Youth Poisoned By Food And From Effects Of Turpentine Given Him By Mother

CLEVELAND, Oct. 26.—Surgeons at Charity hospital today lost a thrilling battle to save the life of a nine-year-old boy after he had once been pronounced dead, just as it seemed their efforts were to be crowned with success.

The boy was Peter Allen, a Cleveland schoolboy. He died from eating a poisoned food Friday and from effects of turpentine which his mother unwittingly administered to him as a home remedy.

When the youth sank into a coma last night, a city physician was called. Steadily, the boy's heart beat fainter and fainter and early this morning the physician said he had died. The body was ordered to the hospital for a formal pronouncement of death before it was taken to the morgue.

Surgeons at the hospital rushed the youth into the operating room and inserted tubes into his throat. Powerful stimulants were injected.

For several hours they worked and finally Peter began to breathe, slowly and faintly but regularly and surely. The breathing became stronger and the surgeons believed Peter would recover.

Suddenly, the breathing stopped. Frantic efforts to revive the boy a third time failed and doctors finally were forced to admit Peter was dead.

Hope Wanes For Rescue Of Six Trapped Miners

Believe All Six Of Trapped Miners Near Wilkes-Barre Are Dead

WATER SEEPING INTO MINE NOW

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 26.—Hope for the rescue of six miners buried in the Mocanaqua Mine of the West End Coal company faded this afternoon when it was reported that the odor of burned flesh had been drawn from the working by fans. This was interpreted to mean that the men, trapped in an explosion of gas, may have been roasted in the blast.

Added to this was the seepage of water into the sector, threatening the victims with drowning if they managed to survive the fire and deadly blackdamp.

A hurry call for pumpmen was sent out. Progress was slow throughout the day, rescue squads making only a foot an hour because of additional falls that occurred as the rescuers neared the imprisoned men.

The mine was idle because of the tragedy. State troopers barred anxious relatives and curious spectators from the mouth of the mine.

Unique Program For Rotary Club

Rotarians Tell Why They Joined And If They're Satisfied

Departing a bit from their customary program, New Castle's Rotarians this afternoon enjoyed a meeting of a self-analysis type at The Castleton, in which certain members described the circumstances under which they became associated with the club.

Prof. Clare B. Book, ringmaster for today's instructive program, asked each speaker three questions:

"Why did you join the Rotary club?"

"What did you expect to find as a member of our club?"

"Are you satisfied or disappointed with the club?"

From the answers, offered by Rotarians George Muse, George Ferver, J. Lee McFate, S. H. Rhoads, Dr. James Blackwood, Robert A. Eckles and several others, were derived helpful suggestions which will play a part in the development of the club program this year.

Superintendent of Schools C. C. Green, Principal F. L. Orth and President L. B. Round urged the Rotarians to support "An Autumn Revue," a benefit performance which school students of the city will give for the benefit of a school milk and ice fund, in the senior high auditorium, October 28 and 29.

He told them that his mission this year was in the interests of the fruit industry of Porto Rico. He came to New Casle from Washingon, D. C., where he sat as a member of an official delegation of six at a hearing on tariff rates before the tariff commission. With them was Governor Theodore Roosevelt of Porto Rico.

Stevenson closed his greeting with a few remarks in Spanish.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—"I wish to thank all of the American people."

With these nine words, Premier Laval of France addressed his American radio audience last night, but only after a half hour of tutelage. Previously he had spoken a few lines in French.

The premier spent four and a half minutes in the studios of the National Broadcasting Company, and during that time broke three rules of the company, the officials reported.

He coughed, he smoked two cigarettes, and he conversed with those accompanying him, as he waited introduction by William Hard who was on the air when the premier arrived.

Fire Warden Warns Of Dryness In Woodlands

"Be careful not to trifle with fires in the dry wooded sections" warned Owen Penfield Fox, this city, state forest fire warden for Lawrence, Mercer and Butler counties, in a statement this morning. Mr. Fox's duty is to work for the prevention of timber fires in this section.

A letter from Chief Warden Zerby of Clarion, Saturday, urged Mr. Fox to make a plea for the fire prevention cause here. The message pointed out the prevailing dry conditions of local woodlands.

"Right now is the time," Mr. Fox declared, "that dangerous fires occur. In our district for years we have been fortunate insofar as bad fires are concerned, but at times we have had threatening blazes. We want to continue the good record."

Fire Warden Fox, in asking residents to employ care, urged them to call him at 1458-W in case of fire in the wooded sections here.

THE CHRONIC PESSIMIST

There does not seem to be any cure for one afflicted with "Chronic Pessimism."

It occasionally occurs that one so afflicted seeks to impose on a patient and suffering community, the disagreeable features of his malady, by becoming a candidate for office.

Then we are told that the tried and true methods of the past are all wrong, that no one is honest, no one is capable, no one is patriotic, except this self appointed prophet of disaster.

With a conceit that puffs a man up, but never props him up, we are told how all the ills of our municipal government are to be cured, even though the conduct of his private business has never been a pronounced succees.

Having been stung by the political bug, he imagines he hears a call from the populace to become the Councilmanic "Moses", to lead them to the land of promise.

Two defeats at the hands of the voting public are insufficient to convince him that he has misconstrued the call, but being a glutton for punishment, he comes back the third time for the knock out, while the suffering public must patiently endure until election day is over.

We have reason to be thankful, however, that ours is a country of optimists, unwilling to follow those who have no faith in its future.

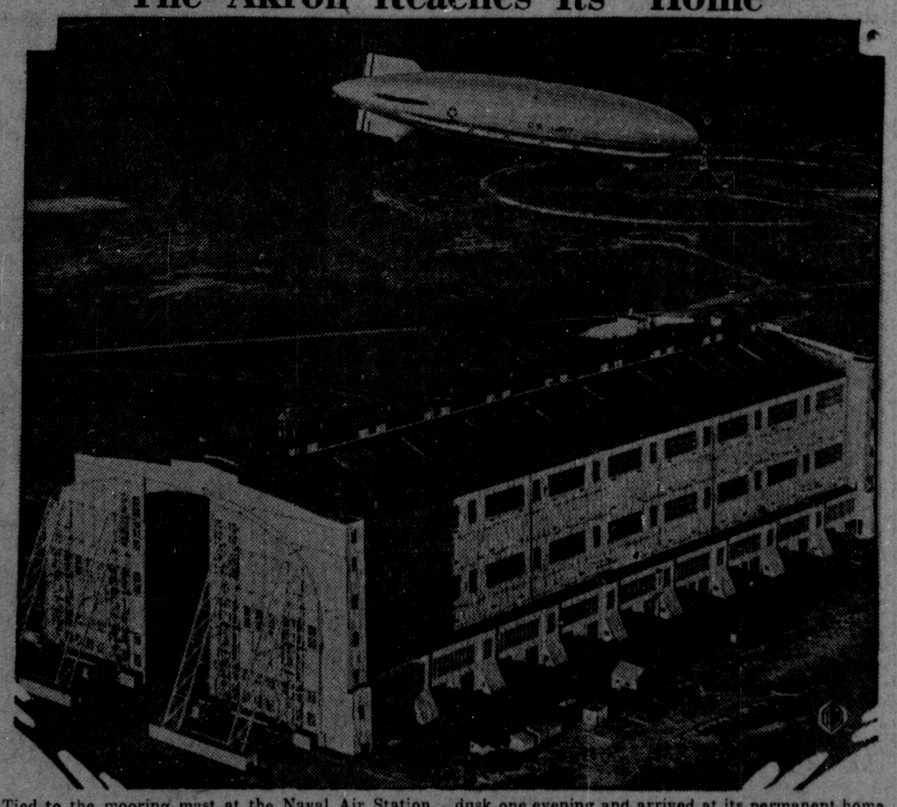

The majority of the people have faith in this great country of ours, its institutions and its future, they have faith in their fellowmen, they have faith in their ability to solve the problems that arise from time to time, and they are not willing to entrust the solution of those problems to the chronic ill-boding pessimist.

The Republican candidates have faith in the future of New Castle.

The Akron Reaches Its "Home"

Tied to the mooring mast at the Naval Air Station at Lakehurst, N. J., the world's largest dirigible, the U. S. S. Akron, is shown close by the giant hangar which will house the new eyes of the Navy. The Akron left the city where it was built, Akron, O., at dusk one evening and arrived at its permanent home early the next morning. By crowding the Los Angeles to one side of the hangar, room was made to house the two monster airships side by side. Perfect weather welcomed the Akron "home."

Boy Slayer Is On Trial Today

Herbert Niccolls, 12, Asotin, Wash., Placed On Trial For Killing Of Policeman

WILL NOT ASK DEATH PENALTY

(International News Service)

ASOTIN, Wash., Oct. 26.—While most boys of his age are in school today, Herbert Niccolls, 12, will go on trial here for the murder of John Wormell, elderly Asotin county sheriff.

Young Niccolls faces first degree murder charges, but Prosecutor E. E. Halsey announced he will not ask the death penalty. He will endeavor, however, to place the boy in state prison for the remainder of his life.

Attorneys for the youth contend the boy is mentally irresponsible, and they will conduct his case along these lines. The boy's father is now an inmate of the insane asylum at Orfino, Ida.

Wormell was shot to death last August 5 when he and a deputy discovered someone prowling in a mercantile store here. The sheriff called out for the prowler to surrender. The boy suddenly popped out from behind a barrel and shot the officer to death. He was captured and disarmed by the deputy.

The only reason the youth ever gave for the shooting was that he hoped to escape. He said he thought the second officer would run after he shot the first one.

Psychiatrist Contends Insanity Is No Defense In Most Murder Cases

Federal Health Official Explains Mental Twist In Trunk Killings On West Coast

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.— With the qualification that information is almost wholly lacking to furnish him with a basis for conclusions concerning the psychology of the Judd-Samuelson-Leroi murder case at Los Angeles, Dr. Frank A. Carmelia, public health service psychiatrist, declares, "With the exception of homicides purely upon impulse, that is to say, second degree killings, I incline to ascribe a mental element to all murders.

"Io do not mean to imply," Dr. Carmelia added, "that as a general thing they are in the least to be extenuated on that account. There doubtless is an occasional paranoiac who kills deliberately without regarding his act as murder, but usually premeditation implies full distinction on the homicide's part between right and wrong, and he should be held accountable accordingly.

"The fact that flight invariably is the first instinct of the killer after his crime also implies consciousness at least of his peril, but it may not imply that he holds himself blameworthy.

"When, however, he displays the coolness to remain on the scene while obliterating evidences of his own complicity, he begins to show a degree of cunning strongly indicative of an efficient working mentality. This is not incompatible with insanity, but it is nearly, if not quite, incompatible with a form of insanity suggesting deficiency in appreciation of his criminality.

"Dissection of the victims' bodies, as in the present instances, does carry with it an impression of exceptional callousness, but not necessarily to the same extent on the part of a person habituated to hospital work and the sights and impressions of a surgical clinic as would be inferred from one without such training.

"Assuming the double murder to have been the work of a woman, the author's sex should be viewed as weighing, I would say, among other considerations pointing to abnormality for on an average unquestionably woman is less prone than man to extremes of violence and cruelty. And while the dissection of a murder victim's body may seem like a small matter after commission of the murder, nevertheless there is an added touch of cold-bloodedness connected with it which by no means need be an accompaniment of the mere homicidal impulse.

"Still, it is to be remembered that surgical training would count as a factor with a woman as well as with a man.

"Moreover, in the case of unusual personalities or unusual circumstances, Kipling was not altogether wrong in his contrast drawn between the sexes.

"Generally, the woman is the more merciful of the two, but where the rule fails to hold good she occasionally shocks man by her excesses of violence.

"That alcohol or drugs were the cause of the Phoenix killing does not essentially alter one's estimate of the affair. Prolonged use of either does indeed lead to a blunting of the senses of right and wrong comparable to the blunting effects of insanity. Added to this dullness might be added the effects of a recent dose of one or the other, the immediate result of which would be to weaken or destroy normal inhibitions—this is superimposed upon the underlying apathy.

"Drugs especially act so differently upon different individuals, however, that it is difficult to form an opinion without full acquaintance with the subject's characteristics.

"In general, insanity is a doubtful murder defense, morally speaking. It is invoked far oftener than it can properly be regarded as an excuse for the crimes attributed to it."

Law Change Necessary To Speed Up Building, Declares Mellon Aide

Federal Ten-Year Program Could Be Completed In Six Years If Congress Acts, Says Heath

By FERRY K. HEATH
Assistant Secretary of U. S. Treasury Department

Removal of present restrictions in the law which are slowing down the government's public building program must be authorized by congress within two years if the treasury department is to continue its present rate of progress on the erection of federal structures.

The treasury department is of the opinion that the present rate of progress will permit the practical completion of the ten-year program within six years from 1928, if this is desired by congress.

Congress has placed many laws on the statute books outlining government procedure with respect to federal construction. These laws, for the most part, were formulated for the protection of government funds, but they do not make for speed when a vast and scattered program is being carried on with every possible influence crying for speed.

I am referring specifically to the building of public buildings for which about $700,000,000 has been authorized by congress. To date we have specific authorization of congress to proceed with approximately 800 of the recommended projects, and the total limits of cost represents $490,000,000 of the $700,000,000 authorized to be expended. This means working on approximately 70 per cent of the total building program which is to be completed at the end of the year 1937 under existing legislation.

Of these, 125 have been completed, contracts have been let on 252, plans are well advanced on about 275, and plans for the remaining 150 will be well under way or completed when congress convenes in December.

Highway Police Arrest Samuels

Charged With Driving While Intoxicated, Following Collision

Charged with driving while intoxicated, Clarence Samuels, 708 Harbor street, a city policeman but off duty on vacation, was taken from county jail today, arraigned before Alderman W. E. Marshall and released in bail of $500 for a hearing to be held Thursday.

Samuels was arrested by Corporal L. J. Lawton and Patrolman M. P. Sarko of the local State Highway Patrol sub station Saturday at 8:30 p. m. after receiving word that a collision had taken place on the Youngstown road, one mile from the city.

The officers found Samuels, the driver, and another man, who was not identified sitting in a coach which had run into a ditch on the right side of the road.

The machine, travelling toward Youngstown, had collided with a sedan driven by John Hill of Rock, Mich., headed in the opposite direction. Four others occupied the Michigan car.

The driver of the sedan told officers that the Samuels machine had been on the wrong side of the road when the collision occurred. No one was injured.

The state officers found, they reported, four quarts of beer in the Samuels machine. Samuels was arrested, lodged in county jail. The other occupant was released by the Highway Patrol.

The coach, with an axle bent, was towed into the city. The Michigan car, also slightly damaged, was repaired the same evening and the party continued to its destination.

Brief Session Of City Council

City council set a speed record for meetings today when it convened, transacted business and adjourned in something near five minutes. The reason was a lack of any routine business to come before the council.

The only thing done, save for the reading of the minutes was the cancellation of a lien for taxes on a property which had been bought in by the city years ago, and the referring of a claim for witness fees by George Ramsey to the city solicitor.

Mr. Ramsey presented a bill for thirty dollars for two days appearance as a witness in the proposed widening of East Washington street at Florence avenue.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Parents Get Puffed Up Over Tests

Dads' And Mothers' Vanity Over High Ratings Deplored

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

Belia is reported by the school as very bright. Rated by an intelligence test, Belia is found to have an I. Q. of 140. She is puffed up; so are her parents. They tell it to their neighbors and write it to their relatives. Belia may become a snob among her playmates, liked by none of them. If at school she is in a class with other high I. Q. children, she may be stimulated to employ her good mind and even to learn reasonable humility while competing with the other children who are also bright. It will be difficult, however, for Belia to forget her high I. Qness when she is out of school. Her parents will help her to remember it. How difficult to be a sensible parent of a bright child.

Most school psychologists do not give out to parents the mental ratings of their children, just because most parents are so childish about such matters, comparing their children, talking about them, boasting about them, even in their presence. Human Nature has a powerful urge in such instances. If your child is bright, he must have bright parents, so!

How young may a child be tested mentally? A psychologist now may get a fair measure of a child's intelligence as early as two years. There are tests available which tell a great deal concerning the child two months old. As a rule, I try to persuade the parent who applies for an intelligence test of her child to wait until he is four or five, unless he seems to be very dull or very bright. Even most bright children had better not be tested young, unless they go to a nursery school.

Any mother who merely wants her child tested with the eager hope that he may rate high so that she can tell her friends how smart he is, ought to be kept away from a psychologist except for advice on how to cease to be a social nuisance. "Vanity, vanity, all is vanity," said the psychological Solomon.

Many public schools have grouped children within each school grade on the basis of relative intelligence ratings, with a view to give the brighter children more and harder work to do, and the duller pupils less and easier work. The purpose has been good, and out of the movement there may come much value. Nevertheless, some harm also comes. Many teachers drop bad suggestions, and certain classes become labeled "dumb-bells," and right within the same classroom some children are threatened with demotion to the "slows" if they don't "work."

Parents at home and in the neighborhood add to such ills. Mrs. Morton at the bridge party or at "Ladies' Aid," very innocently announces how bright her Billy is and emphasizes it with: "Too bad that Ted Trivision must be in the 'dumb-bell' class. It must worry his mother."

Occasionally a child falls into a group too low for his ability, gets discouraged and is branded for his whole school life. Some teachers stupidly interpret an intelligence rating as an absolutely accurate one. They ought to know that at best it is but a very rough and general estimate of the child's ability. All sorts of bad things occasicnally happen in regard to intelligence tests and their ratings; but these bad things are relatively small in comparison with the tremendous good which has developed through the mental testing movement.

Highland Church Host To Scouts

Annual Sermon To Girl Scouts Is Preached By Dr. C. J. Williamson, Pastor

At the vesper service in the Highland Church Sunday at 5 o'clock about fifty girl scouts and their leaders heard the annual sermon to Scouts.

Shortly before the service started the girls assembled in the Sunday School room of the church and as the organist played the prelude they marched down the aisle and took the seats reserved for them.

Dr. Williamson took as his sermon subject "The Door Into Tomorrow" and stated that the door into tomorrow is yourself and that yesterday makes today, and today makes tomorrow.

He urged the girls to climb the hill of today and look into and dream about tomorrow, setting an ideal goal for the future and to see what kind of a girl each wanted to be, making each day count for something and be an influence to others. "In getting ready for the future", said Dr. Williamson, "you must watch your body, so that it may grow and develop in the way it should; you must watch your mind, to keep it in the right path; you must watch your will, learn self reliance, and make God your friend, also listen to criticism, when it is for your good".

His closing thought was that the girls must keep growing and watching toward tomorrow for today is the friends or enemy of tomorrow, and each day is a reference the girl builds for the future. To be dependable and choose the right kind of friends is one of the main things for the Girl Scout to do and above all to keep your eye on Jesus Christ.

At the close of the service the girls were greeted by the members of the congregation.

VERY MUCH PRESENT

Pa and Ma sat thoughtfully before the open fireplace and listened to the roaring exhaust of their son's new sport roadster as he backed it out of the garage and highballed down the street for—well, another night out.

"You're derned right," Pa rejoined, cynically; "especially when the present happens to be a fast car."

Going Around In Washington

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Senate irreconcilables bay be watching with growing alarm and indignation the course of the administration in joining the League of Nations on the Sino-Japanese Manchurian dispute, but Prentiss Gilbert, the young American "observer" in Geneva, is enjoying his sudden prominence in world affairs immensely.

Not that Gilbert is a limelight seeker. But delicate situations are Gilbert's particular forte. Throughout his short but brilliant career as a diplomat he has specialized in crises, big and small. When Count Karolyi, the Austrian Socialist who Charles Evans Hughes, when he was secretary of state, refused entrance to the United States, was finally allowed to visit the country, it was Gilbert who was given the job of reeciving him when he called at the state department.

Secretary Stimson and the other heads of the department had somehow or other found need to be absent from their offices that day. Gilbert was delegated to meet the count and he carried the matter off with great elan.

• • •

Because of this talent for deft handling of touchy matters, Gilbert was chosen by Secretary Stimson last years for the post of unofficial observer at the league. When his appointment to the Geneva post was sent to the senate, it was listed under consular nominations. Gilbert's nominal title in Geneva is American consul. But everyone in Europe knows, of course, that that is just a bit of diplomatic camouflage. There has long been an American consul in Geneva. Gilbert does no consular work. He was sent to Geneva to represent this country at the league and current events over the Manchurian disturbance have only publicly confirmd what everyone in a foreign office in Europe knew.

When Gilbert's appointment to the Geneva post was sent to the senate he was in great concern that it might be challenged on the ground that it was a move of dalliance with the league. He knew very well that sooner or later, as events have amply proven, he would get his chance for the "big play". He modestly hoped to have this opportunity to serve his government. What his own views about the league are, is not known. But the Geneva appointment offered him his big chance and being an ambitious and able young diplomat he was eager to get the opportunity.

In Geneva he and his beautiful wife have been a great success. The placid, lovely little city quickly took to the brilliant young couple. Gilbert with his rare tact kept a close watch on league doings, but carefully kept himself in the background, as becomes a "Consul". It was noticeable that he was always nearby when big things were underfoot, but always as an onlooker.

And then the Sino-Japanese crisis broke; Stimson rushed to the league, and the name of Prentiss Gilbert suddenly appeared in the headlines and front pages of every newspaper in the country . Friends of Gilbert in the capital smiled at the thought of how he must be enjoying it all. They could see him, tall, handsome, boyish looking, moving urbanely about among the grave and aged European statesmen, greeting everyone with warmth and sincerity, but always the very much self-possessed diplomat.

• • •

Gilbert's background is the kind to give him a steady self-confidence. As a youth still in his teens, he accompanied his father, an infantry commander, in his campaigns against the Filipino insurgents. He participated in the fighting against the rebel Moros, and had a grand time. During the world war he was in the army intelligence division. After the war he was asked by the state department to organize its political division.

His brilliant work brought him rapid promotion and he was soon assistant chief of the western European division. In this bureau he was the department's expert on Chamber of Commerce meetings. He has made a hobby of far eastern affairs and has traveled widely there.

• • •

When he resided in Washington he and his charming wife had a little house in historic Georgetown. Gilbert was notorious among his devoted friends for his hair-raising automobile driving. He had a battered little car which was at once the wonder and fear of his friends and neighbors.

At last, to save his and their lives, a delegation called on him one evening and told him that he owed it to Charlotte, his wife, to allow her to handle the wheel. She looked so stunning driving the motor. Gilbert was entranced and from that day always insisted that his wife drive. And thus, so his friends say, was spared for Secretary Stimson this country's first official representative to the League of Nations.

KITTANNING, Pa., Oct. 26—The potato market is reported as slow, with little change in the price At the fields they are bringing from 40 to 45 cents in quantity and delivered 50 cents. The retail price is 60 and 65 cents.

The yield is reported good, a number of the larger growers having in the neighborhood of 300 bushels to the acre. Mont Armstrong and the Odd Fellows Home are believed to have reached 400 bushels, but the plots from which the big yields were taken had not been measured.

"Relentless Machine Of Government" Seen "Strangling" British

Sir Ernest Benn, Noted Industrial Economist, Declares "Too Many Laws" Threaten United States, Too

SIR ERNEST BENN
Portrait painted by the late Sir William Orpen.

"BRITAIN IS SUFFERING from the mistaken belief that the state can support the citizen instead of actually being supported by him."

By PAUL SHINKMAN
Central Press Correspondent

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Will the relentless machine of government eventually acquire a strange hold on Americans, as it already threatens to do upon the British?

"Let America take heed lest it find itself enmeshed in a network of laws, statutes, rules and orders of the kind that now threatens the liberties of Britain's 600,000 employers of labor and, indirectly, of every subject of the empire!"

Sir Ernest Benn, Bart, C. B., noted British industrial economist and a leader of the Individualist movement, issues this warning to Americans in an interview granted exclusively to Central Press.

Britain's Folly

"Britain's present difficulties are but one-third due to the war and two-thirds due to her own follies of government," said Sir Ernest.

"We are suffering from 30 years of stupid worship of the governmental idea. During those 30 years parliament and government departments have given us 3,000 new laws and hundreds of thousands of new rules and orders having the effect of law. We are suffering from the attempt to put government in front of individual enterprise in the mistaken belief that the state can support the citizen instead of actually being supported by him."

The unhappy result of this policy, according to this British authority, is to actually prolong business depression and increase unemployment instead of helping the situation. It is pointed out that instead of forcing constructive activity, these acts of parliament and departmental orders can only act as a restraining and depressing influence by prohibiting the individual from doing specific things.

"Only 70 per cent of our personal liberty remains," remarked Sir Ernest. "You cannot sell a seed potato, give a cricket team a ride, cut down a tree or put up a fence, keep a chicken or listen to the wireless, have a baby or a drink, put on your working overalls or your bathing suit, lay a brick, sell a cherry, sit in your office window to look at the lord mayor's show, or, in fact, do anything until some non-producing official has made a living from 11 to 3 o'clock by giving you permission."

Give Parliament A Vacation

As a first step in the solution of the problem, this noted British industrial economist proposes that the 600 members of the British parliament (corresponding to our own senators and representatives in Washington) be given an extended vacation. He suggests a return to the government theory that the Britisher is an honest, decent, competent creature who might safely be trusted to do the right thing. And that when found to be oherwise, he is promptly locked up.

"British politicians and all their political potterings of the last 30 years," he declared, "have done more harm to Britain and to all those countries which follow Britain's lead, than all the wars of history."

"God save you from it!" he added referring to America. "If the United States would stick to the truth that the people support the state, and not the state the people, they would render the best service to the whole civilized world."

There may be a few people in the city, who remember something of the earlier history of the Croton Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, but in general little is known about it. About 1847-1848, a Methodist class was organized in the Croton district and in 1850, a church building was erected. Among the prominent members at the date of its organization were T. P. Bittner, Isaac Cline, John Rhodes, J. C. Young, Daniel Bittner and James Emery with their families. The first pastor previous to the erection of the building were Reverands Crum and Hubbard. The first preaching was in the school house of the district. The first regular pastor in charge was Rev. John Graham, who preached for a number of years and dedicated the new church. In 1886, the name of the church was changed to Shenango M. E. church. In 1893, its official title was changed to Croton Avenue M. E. church, which name it has borne ever since. In 1899, Savannah was annexed to the Croton church, but 1908 it was taken off and Croton Avenue M. E. church again became a station. Since that time, this congregatiion has kept coming to the front until today, it is one of the most active Methodist Episcopal churches in the city.

32,000,000 Trees Are In Nurseries

Over Eight Million Trees Available For Shipment In State

HARRISBURG. Oct. 26—Completed inventories at the three State Forest tree nurseries operated by the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Water at Clearfield, Clearfield county: Greenwood, Huntingdon County and Mont Alto, Franklin county, show a total of more than 32,000,000 seedlings and transplants being raised for reforestration purposes. Approximately eight and one half million seedlings are available for shipment for the present fall planting season and for next spring.

Inventories would have been even higher had the drought of the summer of 1930 not occurred which according to John W. Keller, deputy secretary of the department did considerable damage in the nursery beds. The drought injury suffered by the small seedlings did not however, become noticeable until the spring of this year.

Eleven kinds of threes are available for shipment. These include white pine, red pine, Scotch pine, pitch, pine, spruce and European larch among the conifers and walnut, ash, locust, tulip poplar among the hardwoods. White pine, red pine and spruce are in greatest demand. There are more than five million trees of these three species in the State nurseries ready for shipment.

Doolittle Tries For New Record

Major James H. Doolittle On Flight From Mexico City To St. Louis

(International News Service)

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 26.—Achieving the theoretically "impossible," Major James H. "Jimmy" Doolittle, American army ace, took off from Valbuena Air Field in his swift racing plane at 7:45 a. m. E. S. T. today in an attempt to reach St. Louis in seven hours of flying. He planned one stop at Corpus Christi, Texas, for refueling.

Mexican aviators had held it was impossible for a racing plane with such small wing area as that of Major Doolittle's to get off the Valbuena Field owing to the treacherous air currents over the airport's 7,500 foot altitude.

Carelessness Is Cause Of Fires

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26. — During the fall and winter months, a large percentage of the fires occurring in homes is due to defective and overheated stoves, furnaces, and their connecting pipes, officials of the bureau of fire protection said today.

Pennsylvania's fire loss from these causes during 1930 was over $2,000,000.

Fire Marshal J. William Morgan warned that stove and heating equipment should be thoroughly examined before being placed in continuous service during the next six months, so that all soot formation may be removed, and any defects involving the safety of this equipment may be corrected.

LOS ANGELES—A photograph of his mother and father taken in Shakoppe, Minn., in 1889 and a recent one of himself helped Frank Gellenbeck, Athletic club employe, win the title to his mother's estate in court here.

The resemblance of Frank Gellenbeck, 42, aided in establishing the claim to the fortunte left by the mother whom Frank had seen but once since childhood.

They say Mr. Hoover has a mean temper. Every crisis seems to develop a man with equipment to fit the situation.

SPORTSMANSHIP

A term generally used in connection with Athletic Events.

In Athletic Events, when a player commits a foul, his team is penalized. In Politics:—when a high official of the Republican Organization and a few of his henchmen resort to dirty and unfair methods to elect to public office those who are willing tools in filching the public, it's time for the voters to wake up and penalize the Party for having such men at the head of it. Do you know that the chairman of the Lawrence County Republican Organization is Chief Clerk in the County Commissioners' Office at a salary of $3000. per year, a substantial increase over his predecessor, who had years of experience in this office? that the present Chief Clerk's son was appointed County Physician, which nets him approximately $2200 a year? that the County Physician's father-in-law sometimes serves as a Deputy Sheriff, thereby being kept on the County payroll, a portion of the time?

Do you know that the County Commissioners fix the salaries of all clerks, deputies, etc., in all County Offices, also the number to be employed in each office?

Eight years ago the Sheriff's office consisted of a Sheriff and two Deputies; today:—we have a Sheriff, Matron of the Jail, 3 full time Deputies and 1 special or part time Deputy; also a stenographer, more than twice as many employees as there were eight years ago. The Commissioners, at the suggestion of certain politicians, are responsible for this. We feel the legislation, placing the Sheriff's office on a salary basis, was an excellent move in the interests of the taxpayers. But why the extra help?

Is the Republican Party in Lawrence County plundering the Public?

Isn't it time to break up this gang rule? (Might say family rule.)

Sometimes Independent candidates are necessary. Pittsburgh and Allegheny County gang rule politics are good examples of what the gang will do if given a chance.

The independents are called traitors for not supporting the party nominees. Are they party nominees, or nominees of a few who have been living off the public for a good many years?

VOTE FOR THE INDEPENDENTS AND BREAK UP THIS MONOPOLY

The undersigned Independent candidates for County Commissioner will break this up if elected to this office.

Ellwood Loses To Aliquippa

Last Minute Score Gives Aliquippa 13-7 Victory On Saturday

GAME IS PLAYED IN VALLEY TOWN

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—Two passes, one a short one over the goal line early in the fourth quarter, and then a long one in the last 30 seconds of play gave the red and black gladiators of Aliquippa a 13-7 victory over Ellwood City last Saturday afternoon in one of the most thrilling football contests seen here in a long while.

The blue and white warriors came off the field after the first half confident of victory. They had "scored" a touchdown in the initial period from the two-yard line which was declared illegal by officials, because of holding, and Ellwood was penalized 15 yards. Ellwood was in high spirits at the end of the first half, having made six first downs to two for Aliquippa, and completed two beautiful passes, one for 11 and the other for 30 yards. The Tubers came back strong in the third period to score a touchdown when Charley Frisk went off right tackle for the marker from the five-yard line. The score came after a consistent drive down the field. Captain Sam Neff made a perfect placement kick to give Ellwood a 7-0 advantage.

Game Starts.

At the opening of the game Neff kicked off to Penkoski on the Aliquippa 25-yard stripe. In two plays Vasinic and Fecco made a first down but kicked to Frisk later on the third down, who on the first play squirmed his way through left tackle for 14 yards. They chalked up another first down on the next four plays with Vanderillo, Luxenberg and Frisk doing the ball toting and bringing the ball to Aliquippa's 22-yard line. The same three again made a first down in three plays through left tackle and center. Aliquippa received a 5-yard penalty for off-side on the next play to bring the ball on their 7-yard line from where Vanderillo skirted left end for a touchdown, as the Ellwood stands went in an uproar. Their joy was short lived as the referee called the ball back and penalized Ellwood 15 yards for holding. Kennedy, Ellwood's quarterback, fumbled on the third down after Vanderillo gained five yards in two plays, and Shaffer recovered for Aliquippa on their own 15-yard stripe. The home team was penalized five yards for offside on the second down after Gratjen had made four yards through right tackle on the first play. Penkoski was forced to kick on the fourth down to Frisk on the Ellwood 21, who was downed in his tracks. Kennedy, Frisk and Luxenberg made another first down in three smashes through the line. Frisk gained two yards around right end on the first down following which he completed a beautiful 11-yard pass to Vanderillo for another first down as the quarter ended to bring the ball to Ellwood's 44-yard line.

The second period was a nip and tuck affair, not as exciting as the first, but nevertheless the Ellwood machine was noticeably the superior. The locals' aerial attack functioned perfectly during the first half with every attempted pass being completed to bring desired yardage. Ellwood gained 63 yards via the air in three tries. Each team was compelled to punt more often in this period. Ellwood fans received a thrill late in the period when Wasovitch attempted Aliquippa's second pass which Pratt plucked out of the air and ran in a bee line for the Ellwood goal. Aliquippa breathed a sigh of relief when Perrilo brought him down with a long flying tackle from behind on the 50-yard marker. The ball exchanged hands twice as Frisk completed a 30-yard pass to Neff, who made a spectacular one-handed catch as the half ended with the oval lying on Aliquippa's 40, and the score being 0-0.

Second Half

A determined Ellwood City eleven came on the field in the ensuing period. The forward wall was performing brilliantly, crashing through repeatedly to throw Aliquippa backs for losses. It had proved to be almost impregnable. Red Vogt, Ellwood's right tackle was a tower of strength and gave Coach Nate Lippe something to worry about. He had sent in several substitutes in an effort to stop him. Vogt was in on every play, to block punts, passes, and continuedly smear plays. His work was a spectacle to behold in this period. Also Paul Pratt performed to the satisfacion of the coaches. He had on two occasions blocked a punt and once intercepted a pass. It was one of his blocked punts that Ellwood recovered on Aliquippa's 27 yard line from where Ellwood started a sustained march for the first score. A 6 yard gain by Vanderillo around right end and a five yard penalty on Aliquippa gave the locals a first down on the latter's 16. Two plunges by Luxenberg and Frisk netted 4 yards and a short pass from Frisk to Luxenbery is good for 2 yards. Then the Lippe men are penalized half the distance of the goal, which is five yards for holding. Luxenberg advanced the ball 2 yards through right guard from Frisk went over for a score through right tackle. Neff placed kicked the extra point to give Ellwood a 7-0 lead. There was yet time for the kickoff and exchange of punts when the period ended.

Final Quarter

Aliquippa was in possession of the pigskin at the opening of hostilities in the final chapter, on Ellwood's 26. Ellwood took the oval on downs on their 30 yard line from where they attempted two passes which were batted down. On the next play Vanderillo's punt was blocked and recovered by Aliquippa on Ellwood's 18 yard line. After two attempts through the line only netted 2 yards. Gratjen threw a fluke pass to Walker who received it after it pounced from Vanderillo's hand and advanced it to the 7 yard line from where Wasovich passed to Muscovich over the goal. The former bucked it over for the extra point. Here, Wasovitch, Aliquippa's quarterback outwitted the local backs. He had his left end drop back a yard to make the left tackle which was eligible for the pass. The game was now deadlocked at 7 all. The remainder of the contest was played mostly in the center of the field. Here the blue and white warriors resorted to the air in an effort to win but the Aliquippa backs were wide awake by this time and continuedly batted them down. They took possession of the ball on downs on their own 40 yard line from where two thrusts at the line failed to net any yardage. With only 30 seconds or less to play Wasovitch tossed a 30 yard pass to Penkoski who ran the remaining distance unmolested for the winning marker. Wasovitch's placement kick was blocked, following which the game immediately ended with Aliquippa enjoyed a 13-7 lead. Dick Wilson endeavored to outrun Penkoski in order to make the tackle but failed.

The work of the Ellwood forward wall was outstanding throughout the entire game. They performed well on the offensive but exceeded all expectations defensively. They made one serious blunder as they watched Wasovitch throw the winning pass. The ends did not rush in to cover him but instead waited on the line of scrimmage to check a receiver and as a result the passer had plenty of time to dispose of the ball and give somebody an opportunity to break loose.

Captain Sam Neff was a nemesis to the Aliquippa backs being on the receiving end of most of the passes and smearing their plays. Frisk, Luxenberg, and Vanderillo were outstanding in the backfield. For Aliquippa Phillopovich, Shifflet, and Yacopino performed best on the line while Penkoski, Wasovitch, and Walker were the best backfield bets.

Ellwood will endeavor to repeat its victory over Monaca next Saturday at Lincoln field.

Coast Guard Fires---But In Rescue

In these days of approximate aridity in America, it is customary to believe that the coast guard's chief function is firing upon rum runners in its efforts to enforce the prohibition law along the coast line. But the guardsmen actually have another and most important task—the saving of life and property. Here, for instance, is a member of the crew of the coast guard cutter "Mojave" shooting a line to the disabled fishing trawler, "Boston College," about 200 miles off Boston. The trawler became unmanageable at sea after a crank shaft broke while the craft was en route to Boston laden with fish. She was towed to port by the helpful cutter.

Altoona Defeats New Castle High, 13-6

ALTOONA SCORES IN LAST QUARTER TO WIN

New Castle Battles Well Against Altoona But Loses In Last Quarter—J. Uram Scores New Castle's Only Touchdown In Second Quarter—Dillon And Lafferty Cross Local Goal Line For Touchdowns—Mike and Nocera Play Well On Line For Local Red And Black Eleven—Dillon And Milton Star For Winners—6,000 Fans See Terrific Battle At Taggart Stadium Saturday. Teams In Melee After Game Is Ended.

New Castle high school football team dropped a hard fought 13-6 contest to Altoona high school Saturday afternoon at Taggart stadium before 6,000 fans.

After Altoona scored on a 25-yard pass Dillon to Lafferty in the second quarter, New Castle came back with a fast attack down the field which baffled the Altoonians. From the one yard line J. Uram plunged over for the local team's only score. In the fourth quarter the visitors grabbed a fumbled ball in mid-field and carried the oval to the 2 yard line where Dillon pushed the ball over by a half inch for the winning touchdown.

Most of the playing in the first quarter was an exchange of punts. New Castle at the start of the quarter took the ball and advanced it about 20 yards and then was forced to punt. This was the only big gain made by either team in this period. Near the end of the quarter New Castle was penalized 15 yards for holding. DeCarbo kicked out of bounds to the 18-yard mark.

No Score First Quarter

Dillon came back by kicking to the 42-yard line, where John Uram missed the ball and Hanley recovered for Altoona. On a double pass, Dinges to Dillon, and a triple pass, Dinges, Dillon to Calderwood, the visiting team advanced the ball to the 35-yard line as the quarter ended.

As the second period got under way Altoona advanced the ball five more yards on a double pass, Dillon to Dinges. Calderwood made a short gain on the next play through the line. After one pass, Milton to M. Patt, failed, Altoona attempted another one from the 30-yard line. Dillon tossed the oval to Lafferty, who caught the ball on the five-yard line and raced the few remaining yards for a touchdown. Dinges tried to place kick for the extra poin, but the kick was blocked. The score: New Castle 0, Altoona 6.

New Castle Scores

After an exchange of punts Dillon kicked to J. Uram on the 25-yard mark. A pass, Kominic to Burns, netted 12 yards and a first down. Another pass, Kominc to J. Uram, resulted in another first down. On the next play J. Uram plunged his way through the line for eight yards before being downed. New Castle chalked up another first down on a double pass, J. Uram to Kominic. Uram skirted right guard for two yards on the next play.

The ball was on the 19-yard line. Kominic registered three through the line. J. Uram plunged left tackle for a first down. J. Uram zigzagged his way to the seven-yard line through left guard before being downed. J. Uram hit the center of the line for one more yard. The ball was on the one-yard line. On the next play the New Castle team climaxed the fast attack down the field when J. Uram hit left tackle for New Castle's touchdown. New Castle failed to make the extra point.

It was a short time before the half ended. The score: New Castle 6, Altoona 6.

New Castle, with more spirit than in the second quarter, came out determined to win. The two schoolboy combinations battled to a standstill in the third quarter. During the final minutes of the third period New Castle was in possession of the ball on the 48-yard mark. Burns attempted to hand J. Uram the ball, but Uram fumbled and Altoona recovered.

Altoona started its march down the field by gaining two yards on the next play, a double pass, Sites to Dillon. A pass, Dillon to Sites, was good for a first down for the visitors. Dillon hit the line for three yards. Dillon again tried the line and registered another first down. Dillon skirted his way through left tackle for six yards, bringing the ball to the 10-yard mark as the third quarter ended. Score: New Castle 6, Altoona 6.

Altoona Scores Again

Sites was stopped through the line at the start of the fourth quarter. Dillon annexed another first down through the line. The ball rested on the five-yard mark. Dillon gained two more yards through center. On the next play Dillon bucked the line for the second Altoona touchdown. The ball was over by a fraction of an inch. It took the officials some time before they decided the ball was over. Dillon also kicked successfully between the posts for the extra point. Score: Altoona 13, New Castle 6.

New Castle took the ball after the kick-off and tried desperately to advance, but their attempts failed. DeCarbo booted to Lafferty on the 48-yard mark. The New Castle line again held and the Altoona avalanche was forced to kick to safety. Dillon made a spectacular kick of about 50 yards. J. Uram, standing near the goal line, missed the ball, which rolled over the goal line. Uram recovered the ball, but was tackled behind the line, giving Altoona a touchback. The ball was put in play on the 20-yard line.

After Kominic hit the line for three yards, McIver, who substituted for Burns, tried to pass, but he was crowded and did not get a chance to pass. Kominic, on the next play, tried a pass which was intercepted by Milton on the 15-yard line. Altoona was penalized 50 yards as a result of slugging.

Dillon kicked to Uram on the 20. New Castle could not gain on two plays and tried two passes, which failed. Altoona received the ball on downs. Through a series of line bucks Altoona advanced the oval to the 30-yard line when the whistle sounded ending the game. The final score: Altoona 13, New Castle 6.

As the game ended the New Castle players and the Altoona players got into a melee, the fight starting over possession of the ball used in the game. The winning team always gets the ball at the end of the game and the scene was one that was hard for the spectators to understand. Fortunately no one was seriously hurt before the mix-up was stopped.

New Castle scored eight first downs to 10 for the visitors. The local team tried seven passes and completed three. Altoona was successful twice out of five times. New Castle was penalized 30 yards, while Altoona drew 90 yards for violating the rules. The game was a bit rough, as the penalties will indicate.

For New Castle the playing of Nocera and Mike on the line was outstanding. J. Uram and Kominic played the best in the backfield. For Altoona, Dillon and Milton were the main cogs in the backfield, while Hanley, Blake and Calderwood were good on the line.

The line-up:

New Castle 6		Altoona High 13

Altoona-New Castle Game Marred By Player Clashes And Criticism Of Officials

Those thrifty souls who like a little more than their admission calls for certainly couldn't complain of the Saturday afternoon tilt between New Castle and Altoona High School football teams. It was a combination of football, basketball, bean bag, blind man's buff, a Democratic convention and a Donnybrook Fair.

After what happened out there Saturday the score seems to be more or less secondary, although the Altoona fans must certainly believe in a Santa Claus by now. They won 13-6 and inasmuch as alibis were never down our alley the least said about the reasons the better.

If you want any reasons why Altoona won the ball game there are a number. First of all they have a fast, smart team. Not to be compared with Washington High School, perhaps about the class of Charleroi, a good team but not a championship team. Second New Castle team did not play the brand the football that it is capable of, apparently having an off day. There are not alibis, merely statements. Altoona won and the pay off comes on what the score is, not on what might have been.

Unfortunately there crept in the game some rather bitter feeling, resulting in a couple of player fights on the field, some bitter criticism of the officials upon the part of the Altoona fans, which was unfair and uncalled for, the smacking on of some penalties which were quite heavy.

The fact that New Castle lost the game opens the way to a statement which might come in poor taste if the home team had won. The statement is this, the officials were fair, and just. Wilsor. Merriman, a nationally known football official refereed, Al Slack of Pittsburgh was the umpire and Beggs Snyder the head linesman. Both of the latter two are honest, efficient officials, not as well known over the country perhaps as Merriman, but capable, honest, veteran officials.

The complaint of the Altoona fans and newspaper representatives was that Merriman was unfair in his rulings. The answer to this is that he set New Castle down for a fifteen yard penalty for holding in the first quarter at a time when the team was "hot," when the parade towards the goal seemed on its way and which penalty paved the way to the first Altoona touchdown. But Wilson Merriman said New Castle was holding and rated the fifteen yard penalty and we believe him.

Second, the Altoona people "booed" when Dingus was sent as a substitute in the second half and was refused by the officials, going back to the bench. That facts are these. Dingus had been hit on the head previously and when he reported for play he was dizzy. In reporting to the officials he walked over and said "I'm in this ball game". Asked who he replaced he did not know and when Coach Emmanuels was informed of the condition of the boy he wisely withdrew him. These facts hardly call for any criticism.

The big squawk came when a minor fight broke out on the fifteen yard line between some of the players on each team in the last quarter. As the result of this Altoona was penalized half the distance to the opposite goal. The fact as given by Beggs Snyder the head linesman who was on the play are these.

"An Altoona boy started pulling a New Castle boy from the scrimmage pile. It is my opinion (the words are Snyder's) that he did not intend to hurt the lad but in the heat of the game a New Castle player charged in. In the melee I was hit in the back and hurt. The penalty was not for fighting but came because Coach Emmanuels who had been warned to stay off the playing field, came running on to the field again. A coach has no business on the playing field and we will not allow it."

Al Slack the umpire could not give as clear testimony as Snyder because he was kicked in the back of the head and for a short time the world was running around in circles for Al.

The melee after the game came as the result of that old silly prejudice about letting a winner get away with the ball. It is a custom as old as football, and the New Castle player had no occasion for running down the field after the Altoona player who had the ball, and was apparently entitled to it. Fortunately there was nobody hurt, although for a time it looked as though there might be trouble. It is to be regretted that such an occurrence developed, however, and there should be no such outbreaks in the future.

Part of the reason for Altoona's criticism might lie in the fatt that they have not been up against a hard team this season. Their schedule, according to the statements of the Altoona newspapermen and Coach Emmanuels himself has been against easy teams. They have scored at will piling up some 276 points this season. Thrown in against a team that is used to nothing but hard, fast games, the Altoona lads could not adjust themselves for a time.

The first half of the game was real football and the score ended 6-6. Many of the fans, some of them impartial observers still believe that Altoona's second touchdown was not made legally. Two football fans, who had no interest in either team, who were standing near the north goal line said that in their honest judgment the Altoona team was stopped on the fourth down before the ball touched the chalk marks.

Merriman ruled that the score was made and again we repeat Wilson Merriman is an honest, capable official and his ruling goes with us, regardless of how it affects the score. Had he been anything but what he is, had there been the slightest scintilla of truth in the crticism of the Altoona fans concerning his honesty, he might easily have given New Castle the ball on the one foot line. The Altoona players themselves were not sure the touchdown was good and waited for the decision which was not made immediately. It was a tough decision for New Castle but it was the judgment of the referee who was being paid to call them as he saw them.

NECK BROKEN IN YALE GAME

(International News Service)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 26.—Only an artificial respiratory today kept alive Cadet Richard P. Sheridan in New Haven General hospital.

Sheridan suffered a broken neck while playing right end on the Army football team in the game Saturday with Yale.

So far he had not regained consciousness since the accident. The last rites of the Roman Catholic church were administered to him.

Efforts were being made to sustain life until his parents reach his bedside today from Augusta, Ga., but physicians said there was "only a sporting chance" that he would live that long.

One of his vertebrae was fractured and two others dislocated in a fall while tackling a Yale halfback in the last period of play in the Yale bowl.

Major Philip B. Fleming, graduate manager of athletics at West Point; Major Ralph I. Sasse, coach of the Army team; Lieutenant Charles E. Born, an end coach, and Captain W. D. Dewitt, team physician, were almost constantly at his bedside.

Franklin Meets Washington Today

Junior High Rivals Meet Today At 4 O'clock At Taggart Stadium

Two bitter rivals will meet today for supremacy on the gridiron when the Ben Franklin Junior undefeated eleven opposes George Washington's high school team at Taggart stadium in a regular Inter-class league game. The game starts at 4 o'clock.

Due to its showing so far this season the Franklin team is favored to cop despite the fact that only one regular will be in lineup. The 17-year ruling and the ruling that members of the Franklin shop can not combat against Junior high school teams will find the Franklin team minus its stars who have piled up a good record to date.

The George Washington team has been looking forward to this game for a long time and according to reports is in the peak to oppose their rivals. A good game is predicted.

Waynesburg Next Westminster Foe

Four Of Titans Are Out With Injuries — Shaffer Out Of Game

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 26.—Three defeats and two victories are on the books for the slowly developing Westminster College football team, and now the Titans are pointing to the important Waynesburg College game to be played at Waynesburg this Saturday.

Waynesburg, victors over Penn State and Bethany, has played tie games with Grove City and New River. The Yellowjackets, undefeated this season, are top-heavy favorites for Saturday's game. But most any time now the inexperienced Titan team may be counted upon to start clicking, and if this happens Saturday, Waynesburg will have plenty of opposition.

Glen Shaffer, quarterback, was injured in the Juniata game Saturday and will probably be out for a week. Alan Harper, on the injured list since the opening of the season, was ready to play Saturday, but after only 10 minutes of action was injured again. He, too, will be out for about two weeks.

James Bloker, injured in the Grove City game, is still on the sidelines. Richard Fuller, veteran guard, has been on the hospital list since the Allegheny game.

With these four men lost to the squad for the Waynesburg contest, Coaches Lawther and Dart will experiment with second and third team players to be used as substitutes. There are still 35 men on the squad, but most of the players are small and inexperienced.

Waynesburg outplayed the strong New River team Saturday, but had to be content with a scoreless tie. Other future opponents of the Titans fared well during the week. The veteran Geneva team outplayed Grove City to win 14-7 on Friday night at Beaver Falls. Thiel broke into the winning column after losing to Fordham, Geneva, and St. Bonaventure, by swamping Bethany by a 39-0 score. Edinboro lost 29-0 to Indiana.

JUNIATA DEFEATS WESTMINSTER TEAM

Visitors Surprise New Wilmington Eleven—Score Is 14-0

Siljander Plays Well For Westminster — Petty Scores For Juniata

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 26. Coach John Lawther's Westminster college football team dropped its third game of the season here Saturday when Juniata college surprised the Titans, held the upper hand throughout most of the contest, and scored two touchdowns in the last half to win out 14-0.

The Westminster defense functioned well during the first half of the Juniata contest. Although the invading Indians registered six first downs during the first and second quarters, the alert Titan forward wall kept these first downs scattered, and the Huntingdon, Pa., team did not seriously threaten beyond the Titan 20.

With the score at 0-0 starting the second half, the Titans started an offensive thrust from their own 15-yard mark that netted the first first down of the game for the home team. Young made three yards, added six, and Staples made two for the first down. But the Juniata forwards sifted through and threw two Titan plays for losses at this point, and Siljander punted to Petty on the Juniata 40.

From this point the Indians made a touchdown on three plays. LaPorte carried the ball twice, and then Petty, diminutive halfback, scampered 30 yards through the center of the line for a touchdown. He outran the secondary defense in his flight to the goal and made the touchdown standing up. Given's placement for extra point was good. Score: Juniata 7, Westminster 0.

In the fourth period, LaPorte intercepted Scarbrough's pass and ran to the Titan 31. Cook made four yards, Given picked up two yards and then Petty cut back across center and streaked 25 yards for a touchdown. Given's placement was good. Score: Juniata 14, Westminster 0.

The only bright spot in the Titan play was Siljander's punting and his running back of Juniata kicks. "Whitey," playing his first year of football, batted down seven Juniata passes, four of which were either on the goal line or over the line. He played the safety position like a veteran.

Juniata tried 13 forward passes, completed two and had one intercepted. Westminster tried 11 passes, completed three, and had two intercepted.

The Indians registered nine first downs to five for the Titans. Westminster lost 40 yards in penalties, eight five-yard setbacks. Juniata lost 50 yards in penalties, two 15-yard setbacks and four five-yard losses. Westminster fumbled twice and lost the ball both times. Juniata fumbled once and recovered.

The lineups:

Witnesses Asked Not To Testify In Voting Case

Witnesses Tell Court Efforts Made To Keep Them From Offering Testimony

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26.—Several witnesses today were to testify that efforts were made to dissuade them from taking the stand during the hearing on the petition to strike off 259 names from the voting lists in the fourth district of Wilmeerding, according to George Munro, independent chairman in that borough.

An amended petition to have the names stricken off was to be presented in court today. According to Munro, two women will testify that Patrolman Moody Champ, John Ticker, and Joseph Capo, the latter assessor of the district, who is named in the petition, asked them not to testify at the hearing today.

President Judge James R. MacFarlane ordered the revised petition to be filed because he found certain technical omissions in the first document. Today's action was to determine whether the court had jurisdiction to strike off the names.

Some Upsets In Games Saturday

Defeat Of Wash-Jeff Is Surprise In Football Past Week

PENN REVEALS REAL STRENGTH

With the football season about to enter its final month of play, the task of picking a national champion among the college teams looms as a rather interesting bit of guess work this year, with the possibilities that the final answer will be in the nature of a triple or quadruple tie.

For the past two years you picked the national champion at the beginning of the season and then went on the more argumentative task of picking the All-American. Notre Dame was in the bag before the starting the bell, but this year is somewhat different.

Notre Dame

Take the Northwestern game away from Notre Dame's schedule this year and you have the same answer as you did last year. The difficulty with this is that Northwestern insists that you count that 0-0 tie she played with Notre Dame, which argue the proponents of the Evanston team makes Northwestern the equal of Notre Dame.

In the east Harvard still insists she has a contender for the honors and when a Harvard man contends anything you can figure that he is interested clear down under his broad "A." Army did have what looked to be a club until Saturday when Yale with a weak team held the Cadets to a tie score. And just the week before Harvard felt lucky to scramble out with a 13-12 win over Army.

New York University and columbus are still in the running, while the South offers Tennessee, a team good enough to beat Alabama this season. Georgia has a club which may have to be considered, but Vanderbilt blew what chances it had by bowing out Saturday to Georgia.

Upsets Saturday

Saturday's game carried over the surprises of the week before and saw a number of favorites emerge from the wreckage on the short end of the score. Pitt did about what the average fan expected against Notre Dame, put up a good game but lost the decision. Carnegie Tech, thought to be good enough to take the Boilermakers of Purdue lost by a 13-6 score.

One of the biggest upsets of the day was the defeat of W. and J. by Lafayette by the decisive score of 21-0. The other upset, pleasant to most New Castle fans because Harvey Harmon and Alec Fox come through for glory was the upset of Wisconsin by Pennsylvania 27-13. Nobody expected it which makes the win all the sweeter.

Here in our own backyard or at least in the district there were some good games and some upsets. Westminster laid an egg against Juniata and the lads from Huntingdon took home a 14-0 victory. Allegheny defeated Adrian 26-0, Thiel walked over Bethany 39-0 and Waynesburg the team that electrified the country by defeating Penn State, was held to a 0-0 by New River wherever and whatever New River is.

Big Ten

Out in the Big Ten district Northwestern took Ohio State out of the conference possibilities in a 10-0 win, Michigan took on a new lease of life and took Illinois 35-0 and poor old Chicago lost to Indiana by a 32-0 score. Beating Iowa is one of the 1931 customs and Minnesota did it 34-0. Nebraska defeats Kansas 6-0 while Bo McMillan's Kansas Aggies did for Oklahoma 14-0. Iowa State defeated Missouri 20-0 and farther out in the west, Stanford and Washington played a 0-0 tie. Southern California defeated California 6-0.

Down in Dixie Tennessee defeated North Carolina 7-0, Florida defeated Auburn 13-12, Alabama defeated Sewanee 33-0 and Georgia defeated Vanderbilt 9-0.

To get back to the east for a minute Penn State surprised its own student body by holding Syracuse to a 7-0 victory. They thought it would be so much worse. Tuss McLaughry's fast travelling Brown team defeated Lehigh 33-0 and Columbia looked not at all impressive against Williams but won 19-0. Harvard defeated Texas 35-7 and the Navy took Princeton 15-0.

Dartsmouth was sluggish against little Lebanon Valley, winning 20-6 and Fordham piled up a 46-0 score against Drake which is not important for Drake hasn't anything of a team this year.

These were the more important games of the day and the results went quite a ways to boil down the list of contenders for the national championship and the invitation to the Rose Bowl game on January 1, 1932. Our own idea is that Northwestern may get the call for the reason that the South had it last year, and it has been some time since a Big team was invited.

It is not given to most coaches of athletics first to teach a famous father and then take the latter's promising son under his wing. Rockne's Best Plays

By COACH EDWARD (SLIP) MADIGAN

By SLIP MADIGAN
St. Mary's College Football Coach
NUMBER SEVEN

"Rock" sprung some subtle stuff on his players at times. I remember what he said after losing the Iowa game in 1921. Notre Dame had a chance to go through three consecutive seasons undefeated. It hadn't a blemish on its record for 1919 and 1920. And it hadn't been defeated in '21—not until the Iowa game.

"Rock" gained what might be jokingly referred to as a Pop Warner victory over Iowa. His Notre Dame team made 17 first downs, gained 500 yards from scrimmage and six points. Iowa made three first downs, a hundred yards from scrimmage and ten points. In other words, Rockne had the yardage and Iowa the score.

The boys played dumb football that afternoon. As they sat around rather lumpishly in the locker room after the game "Rock" came in and said:

"You fellows lack mental poise." He walked out without further ado over losing his first game in three seasons.

* * *

"Buck" Shaw, now assistant coach at Santa Clara, and then a member of the team, was slouching along downhearted along the campus after the game. He ran into Alec, the janitor of sorin Hall.

"How come you lose that game?" Alec asked Shaw.

"Lacked mental poise," shrugged Shaw.

"That guy never could play ball. What in the duce did 'Rock' stick him in there for?" was Alec's reply.

* * *

Notre Dame had a two-year schedule with Princeton once and the contract called for continuance of football relations between the two schools Providing Notre Dame filled the stadium the second game.

Rockne beat Princeton the first year and the Bill Roper school knew it would take a second game on the chin. So they did not want to meet Rockne's Ramblers again.

It was later said that in order to have an "out" Princeton held out several thousand tickets, refusing to sell them, although they were quite in demand. That put the Tigers in a position to point out to Notre Dame that it had not packed the stadium as per agreement.

"Rock" really had planned to make it easy on Princeton and Roper that year. That is he wasn't going to beat them by too big a score. But when he heard about those tickets he changed his mind.

"Boys," he said in addressing his players before the game, "these Princeton fellows think we haven't enough polish to stay on their schedule. So let's polish them off with neatness and dispatch this afternoon."

* * *

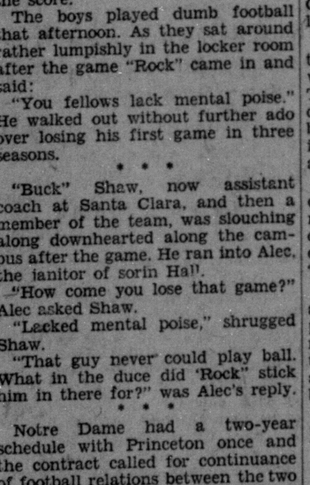

Once Rockne was too broken to talk to his team between halves after it had been badly outplayed. It was in the 1926 Minnesota game. Freddy Collins, fullback, got his jaw broken in a collision with big Herb Joesting on the first play of the game. Joe Boland, tackle, and recent Santa Clara line coach, sustained a broken leg on the very next play.

At half time they telephoned from the hospital that Collins' condition was grave. Rockne sobbed aloud. Tears welled down his cheeks. He didn't make any speech to the boys, but his silence moved them to piling up 20 points in the second half and winning, 20 to 0.

Rockne worked every angle of psychology on his players when it was needed for a victory. Once he pulled out a telegraph blank, purporting to come from his sick boy, reading, "Tell the boys to win for me Daddy."

In a tough game against Nebraska after the war he exhibited a tattered postcard from Lieutenant McInerney, a former Notre Dame star, written shortly before he was killed in action in France. It read, "Tell the boys to beat Nebraska for me."

Charles Comiskey White Sox Owner Dies Of Illness

Famous Owner Of Chicago White Sox Baseball Team Dies Of Complications

DEATH COMES AT WISCONSIN HOME

(International News Service)

EAGLE RIVER, Wis., Oct. 26.—Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, American League baseball club, died here today at the age of 72.

He had been in a coma for nearly 24 hours when the end came. His death occurred in his summer home where he suffered for more than two weeks from a critical illness arising out of a complication of heart and kidney trouble.

The aged baseball magnate's son, Louis Comiskey, was at his bedside when the end came.

Louis is the only surviving member of Comiskey's immediate family. The elderly magnate died in his sleep.

Baseball Pioneer

Comiskey's death terminated one of the longest and most picturesque careers in the history of baseball. He was the only player ever to rise to a position of sole ownership of a major league club. Throughout the baseball world and to his numerous friends he was known as the "Old Roman."

His interest in the national pastime stretches back to the days when he was teamster of a brick wagon as a boy of 16. Even against the admonition of his parents, he pursued his beloved sport until the last.

He was born in Chicago on August 15, 1859. As a lad he spent much of his leisure time in playing baseball with his neighborhood playmates. Once he deserted his brick wagon to pitch in a sandlot contest. His father discovered him neglecting his work and gave him a severe reprimand. From that point on, he was definitely converted to a baseball career.

Began In Milwaukee

His first baseball job was with the Milwaukee Alerts as third baseman at a salary of $30 a week. He played successively with teams representing Elgin, Ill., and Dubuque, Ia., and in 1883 he made his debut with the St. Louis Browns. Shortly thereafter his success won for him the managership of the St. Louis team, and under his guidance the club won the American Association pennant for four consecutive years.

In 1890 Comiskey assumed management of the Chicago Club in the New Pleyr's League. A year later found him back with the St. Louis Browns and from there he went to the Cincinnati Reds as manager. In Cincinnati he met Myron Bancroft Johnson, then a newspaperman, and the two men launched the movement which eventuated in the birth of the American League.

Comiskey and Johnson first ventured into the Western League. Comiskey organized the St. Paul club of that circuit in 1895 and took over the team's management. The club was moved to Chicago two years later and became the Chicago White Sox, with Comiskey as president and owner, when the American League was organized in 1900.

Fought For League

In the early years of the American League Comiskey and Johnson toiled together to shape the circuit into the organization it is today. Later, however, their friendship turned into bitter enmity.

The heaviest blow ever sustained by Comiskey was the "Black Sox" incident of 1919 when players on the strongest team he ever assembled threw the World Series to Cincinnati. He banished seven of his stars and began rebuilding his club, but the "Old Roman" never fully recovered from the shock and his health began a gradual decline.

Comiskey was married to Nan Kelly of Dubuque, Ia., in 1882. There were two children, but one died. The other, J. Louis Comiskey, is now treasurer of the White Sox.

Muldoon Pulls Original One

Would Have Big Man-Mountains Fight It Out Among Themselves For Recognition

GEORGE GODFREY IS MENTIONED

By FRANKLIN GRANT
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—William Muldoon, chairman of the New York boxing commission again has twanged the funny bones of the boxing world. The iron-fisted ruler practically creates a new division for the mauling men mountains in a dictum that directs Primo Carnera, Vittorio Campolo, Arthur Dekuh, Ray Impel, Walter Cobb, Jose Santa and, of all things, George Godfrey, to fight it out among themselves. What the huge hulks are to fight for, nobody knows.

The biggest laugh of all came with the mention of Godfrey's name.

As the fight fans will recall, Godfrey, for quite a spell, has been persona non grata with the Queensberry czar and his flanking board membership.

Times Have Changed.

Muldoon again proves "a king can do no wrong." Great men are privileged to change their minds.

Thirty-five or forty years ago, when Muldoon was a truly great wrestler, he toppled many an opponent twice as big as himself. His slogan of those days was: "None can measure a man by inches. One doesn't have to be huge to be good and great in the ring or out of it."

If Muldoon has his way—gone are the days of such thrilling ring spectacles as Jack Dempsey provided a pulsating pugilistic populace when he cut the giant Jess Willard down to his own size and stored him away on the drying rack at Toledo. And there will be no thrillers such as the same Dempsey enacted in the New York ball park when he dethroned the Mastodonic Angel Firpo, the Wild Bull of the Pampus.

But then—fight fans no longer expect to see great fights. Laughs, and lots of them, likely will be their lot.

Notre Dame Makes Good Pitt Eleven Take Bad Beating

Irish Too Clever For Panthers—Reserves Spell Doom Late In Battle

AERIAL ATTACK IS SUCCESSFUL

VICTOR JACOBS
International News Service Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26.—Today was blue Monday for local football fans of whom there are several. None of Pittsburgh's three college teams was able to eke out a victory over the week end.

Duquesne started by getting no better than a scoreless tie with Western Maryland.

Then Carnegie Tech played host to the boilermakers of Purdue and did it so well that the Middlewesterners went home with a 13-6 victory.

Irish Too Clever

To cap the climax Pitt was defeated, 25 to 12, by two great Notre Dame aggregations. The Golden Panthers made a great showing against the Irish, but Hunk Anderson simply had too much reserve material for them to match.

The best team won, no doubt. Even if the eminent Dr. Sutherland had been able to show as many crack reserves as the South Benders, the result might have been the same. For at Notre Dame they take their football as seriously as California does its oranges.

As one Pittsburgh sports writer put it "It is possible that the fine football machine at Pitt might beat one of the current Notre Dame teams, but it was proved Saturday that the Panthers cannot play a double-header with the great Irish aggregation and expect anything more than came out of the 25-12 victory for Notre Dame."

3 To 6 At Half

When the first half ended the Panthers were trailing the wonder team, 6 to 13, but they had hit their stride and there was every indication that the second half held much for them.

But the last half found Anderson shooting in an entirely fresh team—the so-called second stringers but there was little to choose between them and the regulars, what with such players as Mike Koken and and Schwarts in the line up.

The fresh Notre Dame outfit proved too much for the tired and worn Pitt backfield. The later showed a spark of dash early in the fourth Stanza when Anderson made the mistake of rushing in a third team after the second had scored the fourth touchdown. Pitt promptly retaliated by crossing the Notre Dame goal for their second touchdown.

Although familiar with the prowess of the Irish in aerial attack, Pitt showed little defense against passing and their opponents resorted to that means to score most of its points.

Another thing Coach Sutherland might do before Pitt meets its next strong opponent is to line up all his backs and have them spend long hours learning to boot the oval over the goal. Pitt missed both tries for points after touchdowns.

Women Are Held As Shoplifters

Pittsburgh Magistrate Orders Two Women Held Under $500 Bonds

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26.—Mrs. Dorothy Edwards, and Mrs. Nina Jack, both of Leechburg, today were held for court under bonds of $500 each by magistrate Leo Rothenberg on charges of shoplifting.

The two women were arraigned last week and released on bond pending further investigation. At the hearing today, detectives testified that the two women had taken about $40 worth of merchandise from two large Pittsburgh department stores.

Most of the alleged stolen merchandise was found on their persons, it was identified by price tags.

Magistrate Rothernberg continued their bonds and ordered them held to await the action of the grand jury.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Moderate Rally In Stock Market Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Both the Railroad stocks and the Industrials were carried downward a point or two at the beginning of the new week by a wave of selling, which represented principally profit taking by outside traders and professionals. The spirited rise in many of the market leaders last week presented attractive profit-making opportunities which were promptly availed of by those who wished to turn paper profits into cash.

Financial and business news over the week-end was generally favorable, and the Hoover-Laval statement relative to their "conversations" in line with Wall Street forecasts. Foreign bonds received little or no stimulus from the suggested "revision" of war debts and reparations and the trend of commodity markets was downward. Cotton lost 14 points and Wheat sold fractionally lower.

Scattered losses in the industrials stocks at the opening were offset by the moderate rallies which came into the list before the end of the first hour. In the second period selling pressure became more persistent and losses were extended some what further, New York Central was again the weak spot in the rails, falling off 2½ points to 54⅝. United States Steel dipped more than 2 points to 69¼. Auburn Auto sold under 130 for a 3-point loss. American Can, Consolidated Gas, Allied Chemical and other leaders dropped back about 2 points on the average.

Black for Youth

Although black is always connected sartorially with age, youth is stunning in black. This velvet gown is designed especially for a young wearer. White gardenias decorate the skirt and clips weigh the square neckline. With it is worn a string of pearls.

It's all very simple. A tariff will end unemployment in England and unemployment will end the tariff over here.

'S Tough Job—Being King

Giuseppi Maria Abbate, self-styled celestial messenger of Chicago, now knows what a truly tough job some of the fallen monarchs of the world have held. Here's "King" Abbate on his regal throne with his "Queen," who is 15-year-old Grace Ippolita. To be more exact, she was the queen until another 15-year-old girl, Lucia Vitiello, preferred charges against the "king." And now he has no queen. What's more he's being held in Chicago on the girl's charges.

Five Dead Men On Voting List In Wilmerding

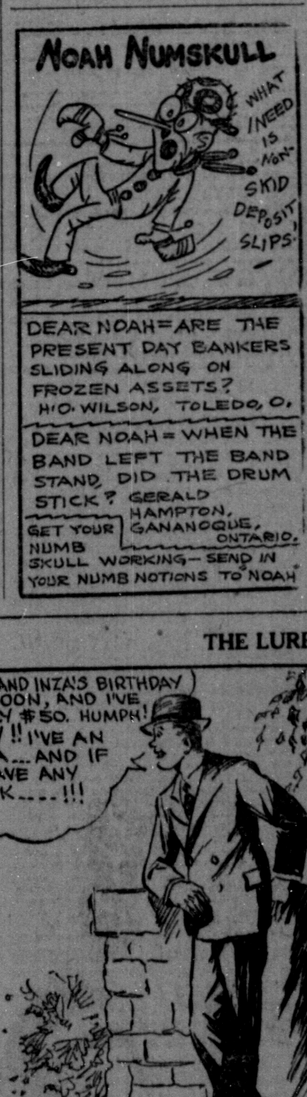

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26.—Five dead men were registered on the voting lists in the fourth district of Wilmerding according to admission made by Attorney John G. Philpott, counsel for the defense, at a hearing on the petition to strike 259 names from the voting books.

The petition was presented for reargument by a group of independent voters in the district following criticism made by Judge James R. MacFarlane. The jurist charged the independent faction was "rushing" the case into court.

It was also discovered at the hearing today that Peter Teck, whom the petitioners named as the fifth dead man on the list, was really dead and that a man produced in court Friday was Peter Teck, Jr., his son.

Federal Pool Of Two Billion Is Being Planned

Would Create Pool For Rediscounting Of Frozen Real Estate Security

SEN. BULKLEY IS SPONSOR OF PLAN

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Establishment of a $2,000,000,000 federal pool for the rediscounting of frozen real estate security and other paper held in the banks of the nation, was under consideration today following the proposal of Senator Bulkley (D) of Ohio. The proposal has the support of Senator Glass (D) of Virginia and other financial experts on the Democratic side of Capitol Hill.

Bulkley's plan would broaden the powers of the federal land banks so they may temporarily rediscount real estate and other loans not now eligible at federal reserve banks, rather than the liberalization of the federal reserve act.

SPEED FIENDS STUDY ROCKETS

Not Satisfied With Airplanes Which Are Considered Slow

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The mania of man for higher speeds is turning from the airplane, already at a place where greater energy brings smaller and smaller gains, toward the serious use of the rocket.

The world-wide interest in and experimentation with rockets is disclosed by G. Edward Pendray in the Elks Magazine, and he shows that the study of the rocket has gone much farther than is generally supposed. Pendray explains that the airplane is now subject to the law of diminishing returns, so far as speed is concerned, that no human can live in a projectile, and then turns with science to the rocket.

"With the rocket," he writes, "the other fast flier of modern engineering, is a different matter. Rockets accelerate gradually, no faster than a high-powered motor car getting rapidly under way. Yet by continuing this acceleration two or three minutes or more, the steadily increasing speed becomes a velocity so tremendous that a rifle ball is slow beside it. All that is necessary is fuel in its tanks to maintain the increasing rate of motion."

Organized and endowed laboratories are working on the problem of continuous explosion for rockets in France, Berlin, Russia and other countries, including this, Penray, who has visited numerous of them, states. In the United States the chief experimenter now is Dr. Robert H. Goddard. With $100,000 from the late Simon Guggenheim, he has established himself at Roswell, N. M.

Army Air Corps Fatalities Drop

Death Percentage Is Cut In Half During Past Year

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 26.—The army air corps cut its death percentage in half during the fiscal year of 1931, ended June 30, last, the War Department revealed today.

During the 1931 fiscal period, the air corps flew 43,964,000 miles, with only 26 lives lost in fatal accidents involving 23 planes. In the previous fiscal year, 52 lives were lost in 41 fatal accidents covering about 35,600,000 miles. Fatalities in the 1931 fiscal year averaged only one for every 1,691,000 miles of flying, whereas fatalities in the previous fiscal period had averaged one for every 684,000 miles.

"These figures," said Assistant Secretary of War F. Trubee Davison today, "compare favorably with similar statistics covering civilian flight operations, especially in view of the fact that the tactical demands of military aviation are more severe than the problem that faces the non-military pilot. They represent a 50 per cent decrease in fatalities during the 1931 period as compared with 1930 coupled with an increase of more than 150 percent in the number of miles flown per fatal accident."

New Trials Asked In Damage Cases

Motions Presented In Cases Of Joseph Cecce And Other Against W. R. Stewart

Motions for new trials and for judgments notwithstanding the verdicts were made at court this morning by defendant in the cases of Joseph and Anna Cecce, and their sons, Joseph, Jr., and Robert, of Chicago, against W. R. Stewart, of Rose Point.

The cases, growing out of an automobile accident on the New Castle-Butler road near Princeton, were tried before Judge Hildebrand last week and total verdicts of $801, rendered in favor of the plaintiffs. It is claimed in the motions presented this morning that the verdicts were against the weight of the evidence, and that there were errors during the trial.

Judge Hildebrand directed that the notes of testimony be written out, after which arguments on the motions will be heard.

TELLS OF TRIP WEST.

October 26, 1931.

New Castle News Company,
New Castle, Pa.
Gentlemen:—

I want to give you a little write-up of my trip from New Castle to Phoenix, Arizona. I left New Castle, October 1st, 1931 using Pennsylvania line on train 404 leaving here at 7:28 a. m., changing train at Beaver Falls, leaving Beaver Falls at 9:10, 56 minutes to wait. Using train 135 from Beaver Falls to Englewood, Chicago. Dinner service. Arrived at Chicago on time at 5:15 p. m., leaving Englewood at 6:13 p. m. 58 minutes to wait, and using Rock Island to Tucusari, Mexico, and Southern Pacific from Tucusari to Phoenix, Arizona. Two nights and two days from Englewood to Phoenix arriving at 9:40 p. m. on time. A good train all the way, and fine service.

Phoenix, Arizona, is a wonderful city of 55,000 inhabitants. Good hotel accommodations and reasonable rates, and there is the finest climate in the world in Phoenix in the winter months, and a great healthful one. While in Phoenix I was visiting my son and his family. I met several travelers from New Castle and Mr. James Bevans and wife planned a picnic in my honor to be held out on the Paradise Valley on Mr. D. H. DeWitt's ranch in the desert. Mr. Ollson and wife were living there on the ranch. Mr. Bevan and wife were the committee of arrangements, and he sure did put it over big. The party consisted of Rev. Mr. Hamill and wife, daughter, Mary from Mt. Jackson, Pa.; Elton Olson and wife, Mt. Jackson, Pa.; Dr. John Flaherty and wife and son Albert, and niece Miss Jurry, formerly from New Castle; A. R. Middleton and wife, Frank and Pauline, formerly from New Castle; Clarence Strain and wife; James Bevan and wife; all told, there were eighteen people, and all of them from New Castle, Pennsylvania.

We had a wonderful time playing golf and horse shoes. Had a big feed and the party broke up at 6 o'clock. We just killed one rattle snake while out there. I called on Dr. Berger and wife, who is formerly from New Castle. He is practicing medicine in Phoenix and his practice is very large. Anyone from New Castle wants to build up their health go to Phoenix, Arizona, and call on Dr. Berger, and he will steer you right. Also called on Harry Green and family. Harry is in the laundry business and doing well. I returned home on the same route using the same lines, having wonderful service all the way.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Some of the fruits of Dame Nature's exuberance this summer are beginning to drift into The News. Some of the best looking corn you ever saw has come from Lawrence county farms, if you are interested in corn.

Among the many things we never knew was that an ear of corn always has an even number of rows. Just why nobody seems to know but it seems to be a fact that nature doesn't grow any odd number of rows on corn.

There must be a reason for it but nobody around this paper seems to have any idea why it should be. Perhaps some of our granger friends can give us the reason. Or did anyone ever see a cob of corn with an uneven number of rows?

Among the special added attractions at the football game Saturday was a foot race between a policeman and some youth who had done something or other. From the press box it was a scene that detracted the interest from the football game.

For a little while the youth was faster than the officer, but gradually he gained and as they passed from view back of the north bleachers it looked like first down for the cop.

Plenty of rooters made the trip from Blair county to see the game and listed in the rooters were practically all the football coaches in that county, with a few from adjoining counties. They figured that the Altoona team had to show everything it had to win the game and they wanted to know how much stuff they could expect.

One crack that will always rate as a classic with us came from a lad from Altoona who otherwise seemed to be a rather normal sort of person. Commenting upon a five yard penalty for off side play he became very much put out. "That's not right" said he, "that Altoona backfield is never off side"

Sunday was one of those days that make it almost hard to go to church. The weather dared you to stay inside, and offered as counter attractions a countryside ablaze with color, an air that seemed almost intoxicating, and driving conditions that were ideal.

New Castle and Cascade park are going to get plenty of publicity between now and next summer. Carl Shaner, manager of tht park has a circular that resembles one put out by the Chamber of Commerce of some California or Florida town. Plenty of pictures and a flock of three dollar adjectives.

And by the way if you want to see a real Hallowe'en parade, drop down to the South Side next Thursday night. The boys down there have one planned that will fill the South Side from Lutton street down to Long and then spread both ways to Pollock and Moravia.

Prizes offered that are worth while and a big night in store.

Probe Killing And Suicide At Akron

Detectives Hear Plant Chief Of Police Quarreled With Wife Before Shooting

AKRON, O., Oct. 26—As they awaited arrival of the victim's relatives from Canada and Tennessee, police tonight were seeking the cause of the quarrel which led Benjamin T. Drumright 51, chief of factory police for the Quaker Oats Co. here to shoot to death his wife, Grace, 50, and then take his own life early Sunday.

Detectives said they learned that Mrs. Drumright returned to their suite in the Cole Apartments, 155 King Drive, at midnight when neighbors reported that the couple immediately began to argue.

Five minutes later tenants of the apartment above the Drumrights, heard several shots and called the caretaker of the building, Sam Pasco, who called for police and then went to investigate.

Woman Shot Four Times

Pasco and police found Mrs. Drumright lying dead in the living room with four bullets wounds inflicted investigators believe by the husband's police special revolver.

Drumright lay nearby. The gun fallen from his hand and a single bullet wound in his mouth. Both victims were in night attire.

Summit County Coroner M B. Crafts and police concluded that Drumright had arisen from bed upon his wife's return home and had shot her in an argument.

Drumright and his wife, who had no children, left no relatives in Akron, police said. They had been married two years.

Mrs. Drumright's family is bound from Remington, Canada and her husband's parents are expected from Tennessee, police said.

Correct this sentence: "This is a fair tax," said the politician, "and I shall support it no matter how unpopular it is."

It is estimated that the energy used to make other nations be good would overcome 96 per cent. of the meanness in America.
